INCIDENTS OF THE HOMEWARD JOURNEY OF THE PRESIDENT

By Associated Press.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 20.—The president's homeward journey today was without special incident. The ride across the mountains over the Southern railway was made in fast time. The train stopped only to change crews and engine. Its coming was generally unheralded, but there was a small crowd at almost every station. Several times the train was cheered as it swept by. At Chattanooga the president received a telegram from Newport, Tenn., saying that the school children would turn out to see him. By his direction the train was slowed down when that place was reached. About 200 children with flags in their hands were lined up along the track. The president stood on the rear platform and waved his hand and hat to them. At Stevenson, Ala., early this morning about 50 children gathered around his car and begged the porter to let them see the president. The president, who had just arisen, heard their cries, and rather than disappoint them he stepped to the door in his stocking feet and said: "Good morning," just as the train drew out. At Guitewah Junction, where the mountaineer engaged the president in conversation. The Tennesseean remarked that the bears in Mississippi had proved too wild for the president.

"Perhaps they were domestic bears and took to the woods upon my arrival," replied the president smiling. At Knoxville the president shook hands with a sister of the lieutenant colonel of his regiment. The president will reach Washington tomorrow morning at 5 o'clock.

SECOND DAY'S TESTIMONY BEFORE COAL STRIKE COMMISSION

Expert Testimony on the Question of the Health of the Mine Workers---Interesting Investigations of the Commission Continues Unabated.

By Associated Press.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 20.—The economic and sociological features of the anthracite coal industry and the effect which the employment in and about the mines has upon the health of the mine workers were the principal subjects brought before the arbitration commission today by the attorneys of each side to the controversy. While there was an entire absence of oratory or brilliant cross examination which marked the proceedings during the last few days, the cross examination nevertheless had the close attention of the commissioners and they gained much information on the several features touched upon by witnesses.

The afternoon session was particularly interesting because it brought out much expert testimony on the question of the health of the mine workers. Three physicians who have practiced in Scranton or Wilkesbarre, took the stand for the miners and in substance testified that the occupation of a mine worker was "very unhealthful" and shortened his life. One physician, Dr. Frank P. Lenahan of Wilkesbarre, who says he has had a long experience among the mine workers, testified that fully 90 per cent of the men who work in the mines are anaemic. Their health is impoverished and their general condition is below par, thus decreasing their earning powers. The principal ills suffered by the miners, the physicians said, were miner's asthma, rheumatism, lumbago and sciatica. The miner's ills come from coal dust, powder smoke and vitiated air.

Dr. John O'Mally of Scranton said that at post mortems he had seen miners' lungs as black as anthracite itself and Dr. Lenahan testified he had personal knowledge of a man coughing up coal dust nine years after he left the mines. He said he had information that a man had coughed up coal dust 15 years after he had left the mines. It was also stated that 90 per cent of miners who reach the age of 50 years are afflicted with some form of rheumatism.

The cross examination of Rev. Dr. Peter Roberts of Mahonoy City, Pa., who had studied the anthracite coal industry and written a book on the subject, ended today and he left the witness stand shortly before the noon recess. He began his testimony yesterday. Copious extracts from his book were read and placed on record. Ex-Congressman Simon P. Wolverton, counsel for the Reading company, read much of the matter pertaining to violence in the 1900 strike and also read articles written by Dr. Roberts during the progress of the late contest in which he described in strong language the acts of violence, intimidation and boycott ng committed during that suspension. His articles spoke of some of these acts as "brutal outrages," and he also branded the union's action in calling out the steam men in June as "foolhardy." In explaining his articles, Dr. Roberts said that he did not wish to infer that the organization was responsible for all the lawlessness committed. The doctor said yesterday that newspaper accounts exaggerated the amount of lawlessness in the coal region, but Mr. Wolverton's reading of Dr. Roberts' description of serious acts of violence and boycott ng afforded much amusement for the attorneys of the coal companies.

Dr. Roberts gave it as his opinion that attempts to have non-union men form a separate organization were instigated by parties opposed to organized labor.

In attempting to show that carelessness of the miner contributes materially to the danger of his occupation, Chairman Gray interposed with the remark that a margin of carelessness incident to human nature must be taken into account when estimating the dangerousness of any hazardous occupation.

The interest in the commissioners and their investigation has not decreased. Each day hundreds of men line the streets and watch the arbitrators walk from the hotel to the court room. Most of them are idle mine workers and they give the commissioners a somewhat critical look as they pass by. Each session of the commission finds the hearing room jammed with interested persons. The commissioners continue to hold daily conferences but what is discussed is as a rule strictly withheld from the public.

MR. KENNEDY GIVES HIS EVIDENCE BEFORE NORTHERN SECURITIES

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 20.—John S. Kennedy, a director of the Northern Securities company, gave testimony at the hearing of the case of Minnesota against the company today. During the recess after Mr. Kennedy had testified, Magnus D. Munn, counsel for the state of Minnesota, said:

"Mr. Kennedy practically admitted that the Northern Securities company was organized for the express purpose of combining the parallel railroads to prevent competition. This is all we charge the company with and that is what the laws of Minnesota say is illegal."

Mr. Kennedy began his testimony today by saying he presumed he and J. J. Hill spoke of the Northern Securities company in a talk they had when Mr. Hill returned from Europe in June, 1901.

"You decided to turn all of your interests to the holding company?" asked Mr. Munn.

"Something was said to that effect at a meeting that was held."

Mr. Kennedy said he and most of the other stockholders gave their proxies to Mr. Hill.

"Wasn't it understood that the holding company was to get enough stock of each of the railway companies to make sure that there would never be any combination against the Great Northern?" asked Mr. Munn.

"That's what I understood."

"Did you understand that the stockholders of the holding company would obtain enough to control the policies of both companies?" asked Mr. Munn.

"I understood," Mr. Kennedy replied, "that the Northern Securities stockholders would own enough stock in the railway companies to elect officers and directors of both railroads."

"That is all we wanted, Mr. Kennedy," said Mr. Munn. "Much obliged to you."

W. P. Clough, general counsel for the Northern Securities company, testified that at the meeting of the Great Northern directors in October 650,771 shares of the Great Northern were recorded as voted. Of that number 192,754 stood in the name of the various holders and 458,017 as holdings of trustees for the Northern Securities company. None was voted in the name of the securities company. Adjournment was taken until tomorrow.

MRS. NATION WRECKS THE NEW YORK HORSE SHOW

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Carrie Nation created a sensation at the horse show today. She harangued the great gathering on the evils of over dress, attempted to break a bottle of champagne, and finally was ejected from the building by the police.

Mrs. Nation entered the garden quietly and took a seat in the tier. She had been there only a few minutes when her gaze rested on the box where some members of the Vanderbilt family were sitting. She studied her program and then descended to the promenade. Stationing herself in front of the Vanderbilt box she delivered a tirade on over dress. In the box were seated Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Reginald Vanderbilt and Miss Nicholson. Alfred G. Vanderbilt was leaning against the rail of the promenade and did not see Mrs. Nation approach.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourselves," the woman screamed at them. "You ought to be ashamed to wear such disgraceful clothes. Take them off. Take them off and attire yourselves more modestly."

Alfred G. Vanderbilt hastily left his position at the rail and came over to where Mrs. Nation was standing and wiping her forehead with a handkerchief, he whispered something in her ear and pushed her away. The outburst of the woman attracted a great crowd of people and the occupants of the Vanderbilt box were evidently very much embarrassed.

Mrs. Nation then turned her attention to other boxes. Finally she started for the cafe, where she bore down on a party of men who were drinking wine. Mrs. Nation seized a bottle and, glaring at the man, shouted: "Young man, don't drink such filthy stuff; you are going straight to hell. Where is the man who sells this stuff? Show him to me and I will tell him what I think of him." Mrs. Nation's request was speedily granted by the sudden arrival of M. Villepigue, the caterer at the garden.

"Get out of this terrible business," she shouted at him. "You are also going to hell and ruining the bodies and souls of men. You are dragging them down with you. Shame on you, shame on you!" The Frenchman, however, ran to Mrs. Nation and rescued the bottle which she had repeatedly brandished in the air to emphasize her remarks. Then he pushed her out of the door. Here the police took hold of the Kansas reformer and forced her out of the building.

KENTUCKY NEGRO HANGED BY AN INDIANA MOB

By Associated Press.

Sullivan, Ind., Nov. 20.—James Dillard, the Kentucky negro who criminally assaulted Mrs. Mary Davis of Sullivan county and Mrs. John Lemon of Knox county on Tuesday last, was hanged to a telegraph pole one mile east of John Lemon's farm at 8 o'clock tonight by a mob. Dillard was captured at Lawrenceville, Ill., late yesterday, after a battle with the town marshal, during which the negro was shot three times and severely wounded. He was then taken to Robinson, Ill., for safe keeping. John Lemon, husband of one of the women who had been assaulted by the negro, with a party of friends went to Lawrenceville last night and identified him as the woman's assailant. Late this afternoon he was brought to Sullivan in a wagon by the sheriff and his deputies, to be taken before the woman for further identification. The sheriff and his deputies attempted to steal into town with their prisoner, but a mob of 40 or 50 farmers heavily armed took the prisoner away from them and started the investigation themselves. The negro was taken to the home of Mrs Davis, where he was identified, and then the mob started with the negro for the farm of John Lemon, 10 miles from this city. The mob in the meantime had swelled to enormous proportions. The negro was identified by Mrs. Lemon. The crowd then started back to Sullivan with the prisoner, but one mile east of the Lemon farm a rope was thrown over the arm of a telegraph pole and the trembling wretch was quickly jerked into the air. The governor had ordered out the Vincennes militia to protect the negro but his instructions were received too late.

After hanging the negro the mob quietly dispersed. It was composed mostly of farmers, but was largely augmented by citizens of Sullivan, Oaktown and other towns of this county.

DAMAGE FROM GUATEMALAN VOLCANO EXAGGERATED

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 20.—L. Lewis Arriaga, the minister from Guatemala, has just received from his government letters and telegrams stating that the reports published in this country about the loss of life and property caused by the eruption of the Santa Maria volcano are exaggerated. While it is true that a part of the prosperous coffee crop is lost the dispatches say it is generally expected that most of the plantations of the affected district will recuperate. The loss of life was very small and the president of the republic from the first moment adopted the most energetic measures of relief which the dispatches say avoided considerable suffering and preserved peace and order in the affected region. Minister Arriaga tonight emphatically denied reports that bands of robbers were swarming the desolated sections, robbing and murdering refugees and said the official correspondence just received by him showed that such outrages could not be perpetrated.

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—V. J. Campbell, who arrived here today from Guatemala, brings additional details of the damage caused by the recent earthquake. In an interview Mr. Campbell said:

"There is no clear idea yet of the loss of life resulting from the volcano's eruption, but from what I could gather before leaving the country believe that 5,000 natives had been killed. There was some talk at San Jose, too, of some of the refugees having been waylaid by robbers, but saw no instance of this. In fact, bothered very little about anything except the fact that I had been impoverished and I took the first means of getting back to this country. I heard at San Jose that President Cabrera was trying to suppress the news, but he could not reasonably have expected to do anything like that for the evidence of ruin was very apparent to everybody.

"Some of the coffee fincas that have been nearly ruined, were worth more than $1,000,000. The plantation of Albert James, which was wiped out of existence, had machinery upon it worth $200,000, all of which is destroyed. Some months ago James refused an offer of $1,500,000 for the finca. Adolfo Meyers' finca, worth $750,000 in gold, was entirely ruined. Both of these fine places lay from 20 to 40 miles west of the volcano. The town of Quezaltenango is practically ruined, for the houses are cracked and broken down, the people are moving out and the neighborhood is covered with sand and ashes."

CANADIAN WHEAT TO BE GROUND IN MINNEAPOLIS

By Associated Press.

St. Paul, Nov. 20.—One of the big milling companies of Minneapolis, bonded one of its mills for an indefinite period to grind nothing but Canadian wheat.

The bond demanded by the custom house and given today is for $50,000. According to the terms of the bond, the mill will have continually within its walls government storekeepers who will see that only Canadian grain is used. The grain will be delivered to the mill in cars direct from Canada, which will be in charge of customs house men. The entire product of the mill, flour, bran and shorts will be loaded into bonded cars and will be taken directly east for shipment entirely to Liverpool. The custom heretofore was to ship the grain from the Canadian northwest bonded through the United States, but [illegible] and. The grinding of the grain in Minneapolis instead of in England will create a great saving in the expense of transit to Europe.

SOCIALISTS CAME WITHIN A FEW VOTES OF SECURING CONTROL

Of the American Federation of Labor---Struggle Lasted Nearly All Day and Any Number of Able Speeches Were Made.

By Associated Press.

New Orleans, Nov. 20.—The Socialists came within a few votes of securing control of the convention of the American Federation of Labor today. The struggle lasted nearly all day and a number of able speeches were made on both sides, notably those of D. A. Hayes, James Duncan and President Gompers against the Socialists and Victor Berger, Max Hayes and W. B. Wilson of the United Mine Workers in behalf of the resolution introduced by Delegate Berger and amended by Delegate Wilson in a manner acceptable to Berger. The debate lasted until 6 o'clock this evening when a roll call showed 4,471 votes against the amendment of Mr. Wilson and 4,344 in favor of it. The miners voted solidly in favor of the amendment. No business was transacted in the convention during the day other than that of the debate and the report of the committee which investigated the Gompers-Shaffer trouble.

President Gompers has been completely exonerated of the charges of infidelity to the principles of trades unionism said to have been made by Theodore J. Shaffer, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. The report of the special committee which has conducted the investigation, reported to that effect today before the convention.

The committee reported that when Mr. Shaffer appeared before it he declared that he had not at any time, either in writing or otherwise, made any charges against Mr. Gompers of infidelity to trades unionism nor did he desire to before the committee.

P. J. Sheridan who introduced the resolution which resulted in the investigation was asked at the hearing if it was true that Mr. Shaffer had made any charges before the last convention of the Iron, Steel and Tin Workers against Mr. Gompers and he replied that he had. Mr. Shaffer denied it. Mr. Sheridan offered to read the minutes of the meeting at which the charges were said by him to have been made. Mr. Shaffer objected to this because the minutes were those of a secret meeting and if read by Mr. Sheridan would involve him into trouble with his own organization for divulging the inner workings of the convention.

The convention decided that the question of veracity between Mr. Shaffer and Mr. Sheridan was something with which it had nothing to do and there being no charges against Mr. Gompers, there was nothing to do but to return a finding to the effect that Mr. Gompers was completely exonerated. This was done and the report was adopted by the convention.

The convention then entered upon an extended debate in which at times considerable feeling was shown, on the resolution introduced by Victor L. Berger, of Milwaukee, committing the convention to the doctrine of socialism. The committee on resolutions reported, as a similar committee had reported at the Scranton convention last year, that the principles of the trades union movement contain all that is necessary at the present time for the advancement of the working men of the country. Delegate Max Hayes offered a substitute for the report of the convention to the effect that the federation advise the working people to organize their economic and political power to secure for labor the full equivalent of its toil and the overthrow of the wage system and establishing an industrial, co-operative democracy. The substitute was ruled out of order by the chair as being a substitute for the report of the committee which was a substitute for the original resolution. Delegate Hayes then offered it as an amendment and it was so admitted by the chair.

From 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 5:40 the debate went on, President Gompers being the last speaker. They urged the union men to adhere closely to union principles, declaring that their success would be greater than it would be if they followed any other principle than that under which they were organized.

A motion made by Delegate C. H. Harter to refer the matter on the table was lost. A roll call was demanded, the vote being on the adoption of the Wilson amendment to the Berger resolution. It was lost by a vote of 4,744 to 4,344.

MILLIONAIRE MINER KILLED IN COMBAT

By Associated Press.

Denver, Nov. 19.—Special from Telluride say that A. L. Collins, manager of the Smuggler Union mine who was shot by an unknown assassin last night, is still alive and is believed to have a slim chance for recovery, although it is hardly believed that he will survive more than a few hours. He is resting easily. There is no clew to the man who shot him.

The shooting took place about 10 o'clock last night. Mr. Collins was sitting in the library of the office building playing cards with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Blainey and C. P. Kemp. Mr. Collins was sitting with his back toward the window, the shade of which was up.

He was about ten feet from the window and afforded an easy target to anyone outside.

Without warning a shot rang out and a big charge of buckshot crashed through the window and lodged in Mr. Collins' back.

His head dropped to his breast and then he fell forward against the table. Blood spurted from his mouth and gushed from the wounds in his back.

Manager Collins never has been popular with the miners in the camp because of his open antagonism to the union and the manner in which he conducted the operations of the property under his charge. He was a strict disciplinarian and always demanded and insisted upon what he thought was right from the men under him.

Mr. Collins has frequently been threatened with violence, and his friends have repeatedly warned him to leave this part of the state, but he always laughed away the fears of those who believed that his life was in danger. He was brave to a degree, and for this quality, if nothing else, he was respected by the miners of the camp.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 20.—Consular and detective agencies of Europe are endeavoring to discover the whereabouts of Frederick C. Johnson, son of Colonel Edmond Johnson, a wealthy citizen of Vineland, N. J., who disappeared three months ago.

Johnson is a nephew of the Princess Agnes Salm Salm of Bonn, Prussia, who is well known in Chicago, where her sister, Mrs. I. H. Rea, resides. He was a student at the University of Pennsylvania and after finishing his studies there had taken a course at the Darmstad university.

On September 1 he started from Bonn for Vineland. That was the last his relatives ever saw of him. Upon receiving no news of his arrival in the United States, the princess made inquiries of the steamship company and learned that he had engaged passage at Antwerp, but that the steamship sailed without him. His baggage was found, still unchecked and untouched at Antwerp.

Although the search has been prosecuted vigorously, no further trace of the missing man has been obtained.

THE PART OF WEALTH IN HUMAN PROGRESS

Its Contribution to the Solution of Problems of Society.

PAPER BY GEORGE BACON PRICE

Read Before Unity Club Last Night and Followed by an Interesting and Instructive Discussion—At All Souls' Church.

At a well-attended meeting of the Unity club, held at All Souls' church last evening, the principal feature was a paper on "The Contribution of Wealth to Human Progress and to the Solution of the Social Problems."

The paper was a most ably prepared one and was heard with great interest and profit. Mr. George Bacon Price being the writer. At the conclusion of its reading a discussion on the subject took place, Dr. E. G. Lancaster, Mrs. Scott, Rev. Alva Roy Scott and others participating.

The following is a brief abstract of the paper of Mr. Price:

"What has wealth contributed to human progress? The productiveness of humanity has depended upon their wealth. The wealth of individuals reacts on the nation. Real wealth consists in the resources of a country, and of a people.

"Wealth in the concrete has not always consisted in the same thing. Among some early peoples, wealth was in cattle. In Athens, in beautifully built temples and statuary. In Egypt, in temples and numberless slaves. In time of Roman empire, wealth greatly increased. Rome was the inheritor of all that had gone before. Ours is of all past increased a thousandfold. Material, intellectual, aesthetic. In the United States in 1890, it was estimated at 94 billion dollars. Wages alone in one year, seven billion dollars and more. In savings banks are $484 to each depositor. One hundred millions were given in one year by a few rich men to education and morality. Education, the chief factor of progress, is based on money; it costs money.

"Agencies of progress are telegraph, railroads, papers, books. It takes money to maintain these.

"Take wealth away, note its effects on a nation, education, industries, art, literature would cease. Man would take a swift plunge downward.

"The cause of panic in a temporary withdrawal of money from circulation. Let money return and prosperity begins anew.

"Wealth necessarily accumulates in the hands of men most energetic and forseeing in promoting the great industries and public enterprises. These men do often go into these enterprises for philanthropy. These men add community by enterprises. There are said to be 3,500 millionaires in the United States. These men, however, in many places are asking how to bestow their wealth best to aid humanity.

"How will wealth affect the future generations? There are dangers in the concentration of wealth. It is possible for them to make it easier for man by encouraging invention and discovery. Also by pure philanthropy. All good enterprises depend upon these men of wealth. So all good philanthropies. There needs to be established specialized chairs of medical science for prevention of disease and all evils."

A MODERN COAT TALE

AND HOW IT CAME OUT

While Ed Whiteley, clerk in the office of Grant Pauley, city ticket agent for the Colorado Midland was engaged yesterday in the interesting occupation of cleaning the back room, he was called from his duties by the telephone bell.

"Hello, this is [illegible] pawn shop," said a voice. "There's a man in here wanting to sell a couple of overcoats and I find the card of Mr. Pauley in the pocket of one of them. Have you missed any coats?"

"Wait a minute. I'll see," replied Whiteley and he went to the hooks where his own coat and one belonging to Mr. Pauley had been hanging a few moments before. He was back at the phone in jig time.

"I should say we have; hold that fellow and I'll be right down with a policeman," he shouted into the receiver.

"All right," came back the voice, and then Mr. Whiteley proceeded to give a description of the coats including a pair of gloves which were in the pocket of his own. The voice at the other end assured him that he undoubtedly had the right coats and would hang onto the man until he came.

While Mr. Whiteley was standing in the door looking for an officer, Tom May came along with a couple of overcoats in his arms and Whiteley threw up both hands. It appears that Mr. May had stopped into the Midland office and being a chance had appropriated the overcoats and going into the Colorado & Southern office next door, had used the 'phone.

"You were a sucker for not seeking them," said Grant Pauley, when told about it.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE FOR THE M'KINLEY CLUB BANQUET

All arrangements are now complete for the banquet to be given Monday evening by the Young Men's McKinley club to the Hon. Franklin E. Brooks, congressman-at-large-elect. The banquet promises to be one of the most notable affairs of the kind ever held in the state. Mr. Brooks is himself a comparatively young man and was the founder of the club two years ago, when Mr. McKinley was a candidate. He has always taken the greatest interest in the affairs of the organization, which, during the recent campaign, worked hard for his election. It is therefore appropriate that the club members should honor their fellow member in some manner and a banquet is probably the most fitting method. The affair will be held at the Alta Vista hotel and aside from the spread there will be a number of addresses, including one by Mr. Brooks. President C. W. Nelson of the club will act as toastmaster.

ANOTHER BIG MOVE BY LOCAL CAPITAL

Pueblo & Suburban Traction & Lighting Co. Plans Gigantic Improvements for Pueblo, El Paso, Fremont and Teller Counties---Woods People Heavily Interested.

Colorado Springs capital is going into Pueblo in big slices. Announcement was made yesterday of a deal whereby the Pike's Peak Power company, owned by the Woods people of this city, and the Pueblo Traction company, owning the street car system in Pueblo, are merged into a corporation under the name of the Pueblo & Suburban Traction & Lighting company. Among its numerous projects is said to be an electric line from Pueblo to Colorado Springs. At all events the articles of incorporation of the new company give El Paso county as one of its places of operation, Fremont and Pueblo counties are the others.

The new company is capitalized at $3,500,000 and the incorporators are Mahlon D. Thatcher, president of the First National bank of Pueblo and one of the wealthiest men in the state; Wabd Rice, cashier of the Pueblo Savings bank, of which ex-Governor Alva Adams is president; T. H. Devine, a prominent attorney who has long been heavily interested in the Pueblo Traction company and other large enterprises; John F. Vail, general manager of the Traction company; H. E. Woods, Warren Woods and F. M. Woods. The directors for the first year will be M. D. Thatcher, H. E. Woods, John F. Vail, Warren Woods, T. H. Devine and F. M. Woods.

The Pueblo Traction company owns what practically amounts to an exclusive franchise for street car lines in Pueblo, covering nearly every street in the city and each of 40 years' life. It has a splendid system already in operation with a large amount of new and improved rolling stock. Within the past two years it has made improvements consisting of new lines, additions to the power and equipment at an enormous expense.

One of the handicaps of the system has been lack of power and it is said that to secure this was one of the reasons for effecting the merger. Surveyors are to be set to work immediately locating a line for copper wire from the Pike's Peak Power company's turbine water plant on Beaver creek, 25 miles west of Pueblo. It is expected to have it connected with the Pueblo plant by May 1, and a 1,700 horse power current from there connected with the 2,000 horse power plant of the Pueblo Traction company on Victoria avenue.

It is the intention of the company not only to furnish light and power for Pueblo and Pueblo county, but for other points in Teller, Fremont, Otero counties and all the region around Pueblo, and possibly in El Paso county. The Traction company has the only power house in Pueblo and furnishes the light for that city. Its limited capacity has been a detriment for a long time but this will now be completely overcome and power sufficient to furnish a city of thrice its size with all the light and power it will need for many years to come is now assured.

The plant on Beaver creek is already furnishing 1,000 horse power electricity to Victor and other places, and will continue to do this while supplying Pueblo with 1,700 horse power.

It is understood that the new company has set aside $900,000 to build the line of copper wire from Beaver creek to Pueblo and to make other improvements of a permanent nature in that city. This is not by any means the first investment of the Woods company in Pueblo, as it recently established a title and trust company there and bought about the only set of reliable abstract books in the entire city.

Police Department to Stop Shooting at Prospect Lake

Shooting at Prospect lake must stop. Chief of Police King will at once take steps to see that there is no more hunting in that vicinity, and any violators of the law will be arrested. There have been numerous complaints to the police on account of shooting at the lake, and the chief has looked up the matter and found that there is an ordinance which expressly forbids such a practice.

The lake is an attractive spot for ducks, which sometimes congregate there in great numbers, and it follows that it is also a choice spot for hunters. The hunting has been going on there for some time. The ordinance provides that there shall be no shooting on or in the vicinity of the lake, and also provides a severe penalty for violation of the law.

Crescent Club Manager is Put Under Bond on Gambling Charge

Robert Christy, who is said to be manager of the Crescent club on Tejon street, was arrested by Chief of Police King yesterday, upon a charge of keeping a gambling resort. The warrant, which is signed by the chief, was sworn out in Justice Ruby's court and Christy will have an examination this afternoon at 2 o'clock. He gave bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance. The particular date upon which the gambling is alleged to have taken place is November 7.

As an institution the Crescent club has been organized for some time. It has rooms in the building at No. 6 South Tejon street and the ostensible object of the club was for social purposes, the same as any of the other clubs in the city with rooms down town. The officers claim that it is in reality a gambling "joint," and it is said that they have had numerous complaints regarding it. During the recent agitation over gambling the question of taking up the matter of gaming in the clubs was discussed in a desultory manner.

JUDGE HANNA SPEAKS ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TONIGHT

No movement in the religious world since the Christian era began has attracted more attention than has Christian Science. To correct what are believed to be misapprehensions, a board of lecturership has been established, the members of which are well qualified to speak on this subject. Judge Hanna, who lectures at the Opera house here this evening, is a member of this board and will present the subject as well as it may be done in such a brief space of time. The following statement in regard to Christian Scientists is given for publication:

"Christian scientists present themselves to the world as a people consistently following the teachings of Jesus.

"They are law-abiding citizens, careful of the rights of their fellow men. A Christian Scientist does not quarrel with his fellow man because of his belief or unbelief; he would not intrude upon another's way of thinking, untrying to influence or proselyte; he does not malign the medical profession because he may differ in thought from it, nor does he condemn any church or religious society because it does not teach as he is taught.

"A Christian Scientist is enjoined to observe the rule: 'All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them.'"

REAL ESTATE ACTIVITY

Trade Report for October Shows This City to Lead Others in Colorado---Facts and Figures on the Subject.

Colorado Springs still ranks first among the cities of the state from a health standpoint according to the report of the state board of health which has been received by City Clerk MacMillan. The report indicates that while the per centage of typhoid here during the month of October is somewhat higher than during previous months, it is nothing compared to what it is in other sections of the state.

There were a total of 40 cases of typhoid in the county of El Paso during the month, of which about 36 were in this city, most of which have since recovered. In Denver there were 8, while Pueblo was credited with 59. This last statement hardly coincides with a story published in the Pueblo Evening Star-Journal a few days ago which stated that there are at the present time over 100 cases of typhoid in that city, a record which is appalling. It is due entirely to the water there, according to the physicians. Colorado Springs is blessed with better water than any other city in the state and typhoid germs are not believed to be traceable to it.

In the little county of Otero, which has not half the people that El Paso has, there were 50 cases of typhoid in October. In Fremont, another small county from the standpoint of population as compared to El Paso, but which has two good sized towns, Florence and Canon City, there were 65 cases. In Larimer there were 53 cases and in Boulder, 41. It will be seen that El Paso county has fewer cases despite its large population than any, excepting perhaps the most sparsely populated county in the state.

Real Estate Deals Reported

H. LeB. Wills & Co. report a decided increase in activity in real estate business during the past week, particularly in the department of renting. Three houses were rented yesterday by this firm to prominent visitors from the east and numerous other parties are expecting to close up renting deals within a few days, as soon as they can make their selections.

Mrs. Will Davis, who has spent several former winter seasons in the city, has taken the Touzalin house at 1124 North Nevada avenue. Mrs. Love of Dayton, Ohio, has taken the house at 1414 Wood avenue for the winter and the L. E. Davis cottage at 1115 Wood avenue has been rented for the season to Mrs. Herman E. Hettler of Chicago.

This spurt in the real estate business will be welcomed by property holders of all classes in the city as it indicates that the usual winter prosperity in Colorado Springs is not going to be in any degree less than usual this year.

GAMBLERS AND COBY HAVE MANY VISITORS DAILY.

Took the Decision of the Governor Without Surprise and Take Exercise After Meals.

Every afternoon the county jail is besieged by visitors calling upon the five Colorado City men who are serving 30 days sentence for violation of the gambling and liquor laws. All of the men have many friends in Colorado City and Colorado Springs who take occasion to visit them frequently. Passes from the sheriff are, of course, necessary for a visit to the jail and all who desire to see the men are given ready permission. As might be expected the members of the families of the prisoners are daily visitors.

Much curiosity has been manifested as to how the men took the announcement that Governor Orman had refused to intercede in their case, which was made some days ago. Naturally they were disappointed, but probably not to the extent that many might think. The agitation to prevent their being pardoned had warned them that the governor would hardly grant their clemency in the face of such formidable opposition and they therefore were not altogether unprepared. They took the announcement very quietly and calmly.

The men find plenty to do to put in the time in the way of amusing themselves. They read a great deal for one thing. They have the very best of food, prepared by their own cook and all the luxuries that money can supply is theirs. They are in the jail but not of it. They have their quarters in the jury room and the only thing of which they are deprived is their liberty. They walk the floor a couple of hours after every meal for exercise and during the afternoon they are busy talking to their friends. The sentence of the men will not expire until about the 8th of next month. They were sentenced on November 7 and the time of their sentence commences immediately upon its passage. They will then only have to hand out checks for $500 each to pay the fine imposed upon them, pay the costs in their various cases and they are free as the air and at liberty to do the same thing over again if they want to.

Writes to Colorado Springs for Facts and Figures on the Building of a Water System.

Steamboat Springs, the bustling little town in Routt county, which promises to be the metropolis of the northwest when the Moffat road to Salt Lake is built, is already taking on citified airs.

It wants to build a water system and the city officials there have written to Colorado Springs for information. The town has been offered a proposition by Charles Brush of Parachute, Colo., and is now considering it. The local city officials have sent the Steamboat Springs officials all the information concerning water systems that they have on hand.

Sports and Sporting Notes

The Pool Tournament is Drawing Large Crowds

The opening games of the pool tournament at the Exchange billiard parlors last night was even more of a success than was anticipated by the management. Fully 200 people witnessed the match and the parlors were kept crowded all evening. Both of the games pulled off last night were full of interest, the game between Clark and Kloepfer being very close. Although no sensational runs were made in the games, some good playing was developed and before the tournament is ended some great playing will probably be witnessed. During the course of the Clark-Kloepfer game runs of 14 were made.

The first game of the evening which began at 9:30, was between C. Howard and H. Kinsman. Both men were scratch men, but Howard succeeded in running the 100 necessary balls while Kinsman was making 55.

In the game between W. Clark and W. Kloepfer the latter succeeded in capturing the honors by running 85 balls to Clark's 71 balls.

Both of these men had handicaps, the former one of 95 balls and the latter 85 balls. In both games George Zeigler acted as referee.

Tonight S. Smith and C. Baker, both scratch men, and L. Cramer and P. Phelps will play in the two games of the evening. Cramer has a handicap of 85 balls.

Each contestant in the tournament will play each of the other seven men entered. When the entire 28 games have been played, the man having the highest average will be declared the winner of the tournament. The determination of the winner will be in the same manner as are the winners of a baseball league are determined. In addition to a handsome gold medal for first prize and a box of cigars for the consolation prize, Messrs. Strang and Garrett have each offered prizes for the second and third high men in the tournament.

Morgan Williams Matched for a Go With Handler

Morgan Williams, the Victor fighter, has been matched to fight Jimmie Handler of New York before the Victor Athletic club at the Victor opera house some time during Thanksgiving week, according to dispatches. It is stated that Jack Piper, who looks after the miner's business affairs, has accepted the terms proffered by Handler. It is the Jimmie Handler of old and Morgan Williams is the same Morgan as when he battled with Young Peter Jackson out at Oakland. The Victor man will probably go the route which leads to pugilistic oblivion in short order.

Williams, it will be remembered, was awarded the decision over Jackson on a foul, but the negro was hammering him at will, the Victor miner devoting most of his efforts to running away. Handler is a battle-scarred veteran of the roped arena and has taken gruelings from men with whom Williams would never have a look-in. He has retrograded to some extent in recent years and his column of victories is about offset, if not slightly overbalanced by his defeats but at that he is still a first class man and able to put up a strong fight at his weight. It is said that Williams is now in good shape physically and looks better than he ever did before. The ring followers around the gold district have banked on Williams for a long time and until he met Jackson he looked like the real thing. Since then there has been a slight drop in his stock. However, the battle should be well worth seeing.

Another gold district favorite fights tomorrow night at Pueblo. He is Jack Bennett, who is scheduled to go 20 rounds to a decision with Frank Newhouse, he of the cauliflower ear. In Pueblo the betting favors Bennett, but Newhouse has quite a number of admirers who believe that he can outargue the Cripple Creeker at that distance and are willing to bet their money on the proposition. There has been a large sale of seats and a big crowd will view the carnage from the ringside.

[illegible] Manager for Pueblo

According to Pueblo papers Colorado Springs will not have the services of Frank Hollingworth, the premier short stop of the Western league according to the official figures. Hollingworth led the league short stops in batting and fielding, being four points ahead of O'Leary, the Des Moines crack.

When the season closed here Hollingworth, Beerwald and a number of other members of the local team went to Pueblo where they filled up the star Colorado Fuel & Iron company's team. When that organization, which is semi-professional, closed its season, Hollingworth was given a job at the steel works, as are all the other members of the ball team. It is now announced that he has been made captain of the team and will remain in Pueblo next season.

No other independent baseball club in Colorado ever lined up such a bunch of stars as the Fuel company team will have during 1903. The players are given good jobs at the steel works at a permanent salary and also receive a portion of the gate receipts. The club has grounds of its own and plays with whom and whenever it pleases. But for the attitude of the steel works aggregation last year there would have been a state league composed of Pueblo, La Junta, Florence, Rocky Ford, Cripple Creek and Colorado City. The C. F. & I. vanted the earth and finally declined to enter the league at all. Pueblo being the main town in the circuit its withdrawal caused the plan to organize the league to fall flat. The C. F. & I. finds it profitable to play independent base ball and is able to secure splendid players by virtue of the fact that it is able to offer them steady work for both winter and summer. Despite this fact, however, the Old Homestead team of Denver, the only other independent team of any importance in the state, took them down the line whenever they met and captured the state championship among teams of that class.

The loss of Hollingworth will be keenly felt by the local team if it is true that he has gone. Whether he will be stamped as a deserter or whether the Springs management will let him go of its own accord if he desires to go, remains to be seen.

A. W. Kennedy, the crack left handed pitcher of the C. F. & I. team who signed with Denver toward the latter part of last season, met with an accident a few days ago which may put his good south paw out of business permanently. He was working on a pair of steel shears in the steel works at Pueblo and had three fingers on his left hand cut off.

OFFICIALS SELECTED

Abernathey and Thompson will be the officials for the D. A. C. and Colorado college game to be played Saturday. Both sides have agreed upon them.

COYOTE CHASE WAS HELD WITH COYOTES LEFT OUT

A small party of coursers, led by Joe Konyen, went to the Garden ranch yesterday morning hoping to scare up a coyote or two but nothing, not even a rabbit, was seen. Konyen's reputation must have spread to the prairies for not a solitary animal was out. They have surely hit the tall timber. A number of the best dogs were taken along but nothing could be found. Another chase will probably be held Sunday morning.

ONLY TWO BIDS MADE FOR CORBETT-McGOVERN FIGHT

By Associated Press.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 19.—Bids for the 20-round glove contest between Young Corbett of Denver and Terry McGovern of Brooklyn, were opened in the office of the Enquirer today by C. A. Lambertson, the sporting editor, who was authorized to represent both sides, as neither McGovern nor Corbett was on hand. The only clubs which bid on the contest were the Penn Art club of Philadelphia and the Hayes Valley Athletic club of San Francisco. Neither club offered a guarantee for the match.

The bids were wired to Sam Harris, manager of McGovern and Young Corbett in the east, and they decided not to accept either bid for the present, as the required forfeit of $5,000 did not accompany the bids. The boxers have agreed to leave the bids open one week longer.

American Association Comes Into Minor League Body—Western Got Bad End of Deal.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—A peace compact was arranged late this afternoon between the warring baseball clubs through the efforts of the arbitration board of the National association of minor leagues at the Auditorium. By the terms of the truce the fight between the two clubs is confined to the two cities, Milwaukee and Kansas City, where there have been conflicts, each club to play on its own grounds in these cities. The American association which has been an outlaw, comes into the National association. The proposition made by the Western league last night to the American association that they abandon their grounds at Kansas City and play on the Western league grounds and on non-conflicting schedules, was refused by the American association today and as an ultimatum announced that they would play according to the proposition made by Pat Powers of the minor leagues in New York five weeks ago. The players that were signed prior to the New York meeting by the American association are retained by them, but players signed in the last two weeks go back to the clubs to which they formerly belonged.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 19.—Advices received from the Crow Wing agency last night say the death of a squaw there nearly caused an uprising.

The Indian on her cayuse was struck by a freight train yesterday and instantly killed. A brave who accompanied the woman summoned a number of his followers and they swooped down upon the trainmen, capturing the brakeman, whom they carried off to their camp. The Indian police were summoned and when they reached the tepees, the excited braves were holding a war dance about their victim, who was bound to a tree, preparing to torture and burn him. The bucks objected to an interference and for a time a clash was threatened but the Indian police succeeded in securing the man.

Placing Him.

The hero of the historical novel limped into the sixteenth chapter and the presence of the heroine. His right leg was braced by splints, one arm hung in a sling, and his head was bandaged voluminously.

"What has happened, Eric?" shrieked the heroine.

"Fear not, sweet maiden," mumbled the hero. "But two hours agone I was set upon in yonder street by six lusty villains, armed with bludgeons."

"And what did you do, my brave knight?"

"I drew my trusty blade and had at them!"

"And laid them low, the scurvy knaves?"

"Not so. They gave it to me in such wise as thou seest, and left me in a corner bleeding, while they loitered off, carrying my sword and purse, chortling raucously."

"It cannot be!" exclaimed the damosel, her eyes growing large with surprise. "It cannot be! Surely they did not worst you!"

"An they did not, may I eat my hat!"

"Then get thee gone! This story ends right now and quickly. You are not cut out for an historical novel, but for a page in the police docket!"—W. D. Nesbit, in November Lippincott's.

[illegible] CONSIDERED BY FEDERATION OF LABOR

By Associated Press.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 19.—The committee on resolutions reported this morning at the convention of the Federation of Labor on the resolution that Porto Rican laborers taken into Hawaii are being ill-treated and should be returned by the United States government to Puerto Rico. The committee recommended that the charges of ill-treatment be investigated and if found to be correct a petition for the return of the men to Puerto Rico be presented to the government.

A resolution to send a fraternal delegate to Germany next year provoked a long discussion. It was finally terminated by the announcement of Vice President Duncan that there will be no Trades Union congress in Germany next year. The whole thing was laid on the table.

A resolution condemning the recent reported utterances of President Eliot, of Harvard college, in favor of "scab" workingmen, was rendered upon favorably by the committee, and its action was indorsed by the convention.

The first paragraph of the resolution as originally introduced commenced: "Whereas, The head of the foremost American university, President Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, etc." Secretary Asgard of the resolutions committee, called attention of the convention to the word "foremost," saying that the committee had changed the word to "prominent," as the members of the resolution committee did not believe that an institution which would retain at its head a man capable of such expressions as credited to President Eliot could be the foremost university of the country.

Delegate Joseph D. Allen of Philadelphia desired that the word be changed to the "head of one of the degenerate universities."

Delegate Lighthall of Chicago, declared that President Harper of Chicago university, and John D. Rockefeller, the founder of the institution, were both opposed to the union movement, and that they were trying to secure control of the public schools in that city and that the laboring men were endeavoring to counteract the movement by organizing the teachers into unions. The resolutions, as amended by the resolutions committee, were passed unanimously. No second was made to the motion of Delegate Allen.

The McComas bill now pending before the United States senate providing for increased pay for all overtime on government work was indorsed by the committee and the recommendation adopted by the convention. The executive council recommended that the application of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners for the revocation of the charter of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters be denied, as the charges had not been substantiated.

A long debate followed and was still in progress when the convention adjourned.

ORDER FOR ARREST OF MAYOR WRIGHT

Denver Mayor Must Answer for Contempt of Court---His Reasons for Signing Tramway Extension Ordinance.

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Denver, Nov. 20.—Late this afternoon Judge Mullins granted an order for the arrest of Mayor R. R. Wright, Jr., for contempt of court. The writ was granted upon the application of the attorneys representing the municipal league and prescribes that Mayor Wright shall appear before Judge Mullins next Monday morning at the same time appointed for the hearing of the 11 aldermen who are now held in contempt of court. An injunction was issued last week by Judge Mullins restraining the members of the city council from passing the Tramway ordinance and forbidding the mayor to sign it. In the face of this injunction the bill was passed and the 11 aldermen who voted for its passage were placed under arrest on an order from the court. The bill was sent to the mayor for his signature, which was withheld until yesterday, when it was signed. Almost immediately after the news of the signing of the bill became known it was asserted that Mayor Wright had departed from Denver. An attempt will be made to reach him by wire tonight and acquaint him with the order of the court, as he is supposed to return to Denver by Monday morning. If he is not reached at once the writ will be made returnable from time to time until such time as he is apprehended and brought before Judge Mullins. Bond for his appearance has been fixed at $1,000. The mayor gave out the following statement regarding his approval of the ordinance:

Denver, Nov. 19.—I have signed the bill extending the lines of the Denver City Tramway company.

If the editor who is denouncing the ordinance in his morning Democratic and afternoon independent newspapers had been running the affairs of the city of Denver for the past 20 years the people of Denver would be still riding in horse cars, with the horse itself on the front platform on the trip down Capitol hill.

It seems strange that the Democratic press of Denver should so far deviate from the truth in attacking the proposed ordinance and the people who have supported it, simply for presumed political effect; when, as a matter of fact, the fight for its passage in the board of aldermen was led by Alderman Condon, a Democrat; and the very first person who urged me to sign the bill after its passage was another Democrat, Alderman Bailey, who also voted for the measure.

So bitter and mendacious have been the attacks of the city government that, in justice to those who have supported the bill, I feel that a statement is not amiss, especially to you who have seen the public good which will result from its passage.

The tramway bill as passed was not the one desired by the company. It can be called "the tramway bill," but cannot truthfully be termed "the Tramway's bill." It is our bill. The first measure which was introduced was not acceptable to me, nor to many of the members of the city council; nor, was it accept "to to you," and the Denver Republic opposed it, as I, myself, did. The grants made were too sweeping, without any adequate return to the city, and the bill died a natural death because the company could not secure the necessary votes to pass the same; nor could it secure my consent to sign it, if passed.

Then, members of both boards and myself, with the city attorney, considered the situation. The result was the bill now in my office. That measure is a fair one, both to the company and to the people. The people have rights and those rights have been protected. And it seems to me also, although I run the risk of being called names by a paper which went into red ink hysterics when its assessment was raised by the county commissioners, that a corporation which has millions of dollars invested in Denver has some right, however small.

Furthermore, I think that the officials of the city, as well as the rest of the public, should be accorded their rights. One of these rights should be that when men like W. A. Hover, head of a wholesale firm which has done business in Denver for a score or more of years; Nathaniel Robertson, who stands equally as high as the head of a big firm; Rev. Thomas Uzzell, and, in fact, many other members of the council who hold high stations in the business life of this community, are held up to public scorn by an alleged independent paper, which asserts that all of them should have "the brand of Judas on their foreheads," then I think it is time for them to ask if the statement of Governor Thomas was true when he said of the man who wrote this mendacious statement: "He loves to temper the wind to the shorn lamb on the easy condition that he may do the shearing."

There are many good points in the tramway bill, and these points have been altogether suppressed by an opposition press, anxious only to criticise, never to deal fairly, when it comes to a question where the Tramway company is involved.

It will cost the company, under this ordinance, more than $30,000 to build the bridges required by its terms. These terms read: "Said company shall at its own sole cost and expense build a bridge over Cherry creek for its use and for public use. This work shall be done under the supervision of the board of public works."

The company shall, also, pay for the pavements between tracks and for two feet on either side of the same. It shall construct and maintain such culverts as the law may direct at any time, and to such grade the streets over which it travels and shall do road grading at its own expense. This itself is a big item. It shall give a bond to the city in the sum of $30,000 to insure the city against damages in any manner whatsoever. These, in brief, are the expenses which will be incurred by the Tramway company if it accepts the provisions of an ordinance for which it did not ask, but which was granted as the result of luring the former ordinance which the council would not pass, which [illegible] and which [illegible] the [illegible] would not [illegible] of the [illegible] would not be on a paying basis for over 10 years, perhaps not before the period of their present franchise is ended. But, as they are a part of the entire system, and, therefore, in time worth something, we deemed it wise to provide that these certain expenditures be made by the company in return for the extensions asked.

Up to the present time only one person, and not a single delegation, has asked me to veto the bill. All that I know of opposition to it is what I read in the papers opposed to on politically; and they apparently do not control the votes of the members of their own party in the council, who have made a non-partisan bill of it. On the other hand, hundreds in person have visited my office requesting me to sign the measure; and several hundred property owners have signed petitions which are now in my possession and which ask the same action.

Petitions for the Downing and Fourth avenue extensions, for the Franklin and Thirty-fourth avenue extension and the southern part of the city recite: "We have for many years suffered the inconvenience of changing cars and often waiting half an hour in the cold and snow for the connecting car to carry us to our homes, and we beg you to grant us this chance of relief."

The city is fully protected, aside from the advantages it receives from the bill as passed. The cry that a 5-cent fare is made permanent on all lines for all time, and that a cheaper fare can never be secured, is absolutely without any foundation in truth and is known to be so by those who make it. Lawyers of high standing and the opinion of the city attorney, Hon. H. M. Orahood, alike assert that the rights of the people for future reduction of fares on the lines of the company in general are in no way affected.

Three clauses in the franchise, which we insisted on to protect the public, are not long, and I hope in fairness they will be carefully read. They follow:

"Sec. 11.—The right and permission herein and hereby granted shall not be construed as extending or enlarging or limiting any grant, license or franchise heretofore given or created, nor as a waiver of any right or contention either of the city of Denver or the Denver City Tramway company, its successors or assigns, thereunder or with reference thereto."

"Sec. 8.—The city council reserves all legislative police functions with respect to the streets which may be used and occupied by said company that it had before the passage of this ordinance."

"Sec. 5. The city council reserves the right to hereafter pass such ordinances in reference to the manner of operating and running the cars of said company as are necessary in the exercise of its police powers, for the health, safety and comfort of its passengers."

The bill is fair, primarily to the people; secondly to the company. It will aid in developing vast areas of Denver's suburbs and will accommodate hundreds of reputable families of taxpaying citizens. It is not rabidly radical and consequently may not appeal to certain individuals who prefer political grandstand plays, made to be declared null and void by the courts after election, to solid business sense, resulting in decent treatment to all.

Denver's motto is "Forward."

I believe in that motto.

R. R. Wright, Jr., Mayor.

WILL OPPOSE THIS BILL—Secretary Whitehead of the Colorado Humane society, has received a letter from the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, asking for a copy of the bill which the Colorado Humane society wishes to have passed by the national legislature during the coming session. The bill provides for the prevention of cruelty to children and animals. The letter stated that the passage of the bill would meet with the opposition of all the children's protective societies in the eastern and middle states. It is not known why the bill would be opposed by these societies and the theory has been advanced here that the opposition is the result of the placing of children and animals at equal value.

GERMAN TARIFF.
By Associated Press.

Berlin, Nov. 20.—The reichstag today resumed the tariff bill discussion. Considering a motion to abolish the octroi dues, Home Secretary Posadowsky said the federated governments could not consent to do so because it was not constitutional nor were they willing to amend the constitution during the tariff discussion for this purpose.

Interior Minister von Hammerstein added on behalf of the various leading states that octroi dues were collected by 1,392 communities and that many of them were largely dependent on such dues for their running expenses. If octroi dues were abolished municipal income taxes must be increased in important cities like Dresden and Potsdam.

The young couple received at their home tonight the members of the Victor lodge of K. P.'s, of which the groom is an officer.

This afternoon the two hostesses entertained "The Newcomers." Cards were indulged in and pretty prizes were awarded. Tomorrow the club and lodge members friends of the hostesses are to be entertained.

Mountain Education.

Teaching school in the Kentucky mountains has never been easy work, and it is a question whether the long-suffering dominie who strives mentally and physically with the fresh, uncultured native product that is brought under his care, does not at least bear off with him, at the end of the term a diploma that would admit him at any time to all the glories and privileges of martyrdom. In a land famous for its family feuds, abundantly familiar with the seductions of "moonshine," and pushing its politics to the verge of revolution, tractability in man or boy is not a characteristic trait. Neither are the appliances for teaching numerous or adequate. The first schools had no text books whatever, and instead of paper, smooth boards of white wood were used, with the juice of oak-ball for ink. Today the equipment of the log school houses that dot the creeks and nestle among the hills of the Appalachian wilderness has not undergone a very marked advance over those first primitive conditions; while the native human type is still characterized by the old time carelessness, nonchalance and scorn for the trammels of latter-day civilization.—Ion Clifford in the Pilgrim for December.

GOVERNOR PEABODY'S PRIVATE SECRETARY

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Nov. 20.—It is announced that Governor-elect James B. Peabody has appointed as his private secretary John M. Maxwell of Leadville.

There were a number of applicants for the position, among them a number of newspaper men of the state, and while the appointment was somewhat of a surprise, it meets with the approval of the great majority of the Republicans there. Mr. Maxwell is a well-known lawyer of Leadville, having lived there nearly 19 years. He is about 49 years of age and is well versed in the politics of the state. He has taken active part in several campaigns and has always worked for what he considered the best interests of the party. This appointment is one of the first to be made by Governor-elect Peabody, but demonstrates that that official is determined to have about him in carrying on the affairs of the state during the next two years some of the best heads in the state.

The American Invasion of Paris.

We have heard of the American invasion of London. It seems that there is an American invasion of Paris also; an invasion by American dressmakers. It is discussed in the Ladies' Field of London by a writer who seems qualified to speak. "I am not an American," she says, and we believe her, for she quotes an American lady as saying (of Paris dressmakers), "They can't sew for nuts." For shucks, please, madam, not "nuts." She has read at great length why American dressmakers may not hope to succeed in Paris, but is unconvinced. She says they can succeed. She has never been to America and knows nothing about its dressmakers, but she says she does know a great deal about American women, and has "seen them over and over again in clothes made in their own country which fitted and suited them, and were far smarter than anything one sees here in Paris."—(Harper's Weekly.

That Gave Miners a Holiday but It Was Quickly Over---Santa Rita Operations Will Be Resumed--Two Leases Granted on the Ironmaster Claim.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Nov. 20.—The miners who were forced to lay off yesterday on account of bad air in a number of mines, went back to work today. Bad air invariably makes its appearance in the district when the wind blows from the southwest, and yesterday the wind came from that direction. A great many thousands of dollars have been spent by different companies in trying to overcome this but every now and then it comes back. This problem presents a good thing for some man who can discover some remedy to overcome this "bad air" proposition.

All the property of the Golden Cale Consolidated Mining company will be sold to satisfy a judgment for the sum of $163.50, obtained in favor of E. Hartshorn. The property of the company consists of the Golden Calf, the Lulu, the Ninety Two No. 2, the Happy Jack and the Little Bertha lodes. Unless something is done the sheriff will sell this property on December 13.

The Santa Rita property will resume operations again in a few days, after being closed for several months. Tomorrow morning workmen will commence in cleaning up around the surface workings and also looking to the machinery and shaft, seeing that everything is in proper shape before a full crew is put on. In all probability this producing property will start up with a full force next Monday morning. Manager F. T. Caley will superintend the work tomorrow and hereafter.

Two leases were granted today on separate blocks of the Ironmaster claim, the property of the old Jack Pot Mining company, by Manager F. M. Woods, to Sam W. Vidler and T. T. Paulsgrove. Work will be commenced immediately and the lessees claim they will commence to ship ore in a very short time. Mr. Paulsgrove is at present manager of the Anaconda Mining company in this district.

On December 18 Benjamin W. Coleman, as public trustee, will sell the property of the Quito Gold Mining company to satisfy a certain deed of trust for the sum of $1,700. The property of the Quito company consists chiefly of a part of the Irish Molly claim, containing 1.78 acre of ground and located on Gold hill.

In a few days the Pointer mine will again be shipping, and it is very likely to prove that there is still some good ore in that mine in spite of its being what many people have called it, a "has been." Lessee Putnam, who is working the upper levels, is breaking and sorting a little ore and will in a few days start out a shipment which will pay a profit. Down in the lower levels there is some ore showing, but not enough to save for shipment, but with another 100 feet of sinking it is very probable that a shipping proposition will be found.

The War Eagle Gold Mining and Leasing company has just finished putting up a new hoisting apparatus and an electric hoisting engine, and is now in a position to do business right. Under the old windlass they were raising four or five cars of ore a week, but with their new plant it will be easy to raise from eight to 12 cars. In addition to this they are building a new ore house capable of holding a number of cars of ore. The company has run into a splendid vein of ore and will not find it necessary to raise much waste from this on. Values run from one to five ounces.

The United Mines company today granted an 18-months' lease on the Drill claim to W. H. Cline. This gentleman will commence work immediately on this property, which is situated just north of what is familiarly known as the Jones-Bowers house.

The lessees operating the Cardinal claim belonging to the Little Valeria company, on Gold hill, are making fair headway in the development of that property. Some very good ore has been shipped from the workings in the past and development now is to ascertain the location of the rich lead from which the rich ore found here originated.

WANT CASE TAKEN TO FEDERAL COURT

Golden Cycle Majority Ask Judge Seeds to Transfer Litigation From District Court to U. S. Court at Denver---Mr. Ballard Makes Another Statement.

Attorney H. McGarry, acting for the Golden Cycle Mining company, and for Messrs. Milliken and Hill as officers of the company, appeared before Judge Seeds in the district court at Cripple Creek yesterday afternoon and made formal application for the transfer of the entire proceedings from that court to the United States court at Denver. Judge Seeds heard the attorney's argument in favor of the request and took the case under advisement. This was the only new move in the now famous proceedings brought by Messrs. Carlton, Ballard and Campbell against the majority of the Cycle's board of directors. The case is one that has already excited great interest and discussion in this city and the public seems to be divided in its sympathy. All who expressed themselves, however, expressed regret at the situation and the internal affairs of the company thus exposed to public view.

Mr. Fred Ballard, speaking for himself and his associates in the case, made a statement yesterday in reply to Mr. Milliken's statement published in yesterday morning's Gazette. Mr. Ballard said: "My position in the Golden Cycle controversy has already been stated in my letter to the stockholders and in the brief interview published in this morning's Gazette. My side of the case is also set forth in my sworn complaint as filed in the district court at Cripple Creek. It is entirely contrary to my established custom to discuss the affairs of mining companies with which I am connected in the newspapers, and I am now too busy in guarding the interests of the minority of the Cycle stockholders which are jeopardized by Mr. Milliken to do so. There are some points in the published interviews of Mr. Milliken and Mr. Hill, however, that call for some additional statements from me. In the first place I consider Mr. Milliken's reply weak, insufficient and evasive, besides indulging in unwarranted and untrue personal abuse. As to these personal matters when the proper time comes they will all be answered fully and freely and it will be shown to the complete satisfaction of all interested that the course pursued by Tucker, Ballard & company, Mr. Carlton, Mr. Campbell and our associates has been one of honesty and fairness. We have always sought to guard ourselves for the welfare of the Golden Cycle company.

"In the published interview Mr. Milliken carefully passes over the question of consolidating the company under the laws of Arizona, which is one of the main points in the original fight. In passing the loan of $50,000 to the company Mr. Milliken entirely fails to show that this loan was authorized by the board of directors. Mr. Milliken also fails to specifically deny the charge that he and Mr. Hill are running the mine in their own interests. This charge he avoids by alleging fraud on Mr. Carlton and the minority interests.

"Mr. Milliken completely admits in his interview that he and his brother-in-law are operating the Theresa through the Golden Cycle workings. While a nominal sum is paid to the Cycle for this service it does not represent a proper remuneration in consideration of the fact that the buildings, shaft and machinery of the Golden Cycle mine represents an investment of many thousand dollars. The fact that Mr. Milliken owns a controlling interest in both the Golden Cycle and the Theresa and is president of both clearly demonstrates in whose interest he is operating through the Golden Cycle workings. When these proceedings are brought to a hearing in court and all statements are backed up by sworn evidence, the truth and justice in the matter will all come out and until that time I do not care to say anything further."

When the present proceedings are brought to trial the plaintiffs will be represented by Attorneys K. C. Schuyler of this city, and Charles F. Potter of Denver, and the Golden Cycle by its attorney, H. McGarry.

STRATTON'S INDEPENDENCE SHOWS MARVELOUS DEVELOPMENTS

A report from the Stratton's Independence mine, coming through its London office, shows the former bonanza to be in much better condition than it has been for some time past. The shipments from the mine for the week ending October 31, show an increase in value of over $10,000 over the week preceding. The total production for the week mentioned was something over $45,000. It is not likely any ore from the new strike in the upraises from the 1,150-foot level was shipped during the week covered by the report, as the strike is a matter of recent occurrence. The largest single day's production was on October 27 when the mine produced 205 tons of ore of a value of $1,400. The report of the London bankers acknowledges the receipt of $50,000 as profits from the mine. This large remittance is more indicative of the mine's present prosperity than the mention of the tons of ore raised. This money which is sent to London is entirely profits and goes into dividends. The English owners of the Independence have no occasion to lose heart yet. Many old mining men disagree with the experts of this property's being a back number, some even going to the point of prophesying a great future for it. The indications for Cripple Creek becoming a deep camp were never better than they are now. Several of the older mines are finding good ore with depth, notably the Blue Bird which is expected to have a good body at 1,350 feet. The construction of the tunnel which, if now assured will enable these mines to go several hundred feet deeper with the possibility of opening up the best ore they have ever had.

SPEARFISH PROPERTY HAS GOOD OUTLOOK FOR WINTER

The returns from the October clean-up of the Spearfish Mining & Milling company were received at the office of the company in this city yesterday. The report shows the mine to have produced $2,000 during the month and this record was made with two or three idle days at the mill, owing to the non-arrival of some necessary mill. The Spearfish company reports bright prospects for the winter. The miners are still drifting on the ore "ray" on the Johnson gulch side of the property and are now in 70 feet, heading in the direction of the old Black Diamond workings. In the breast of the tunnel this ore body is now 10 feet wide and the ore will all mill better than $7 per ton. A peculiar feature of this last ore body opened up is its lying 18 feet below what has always been considered the floor of the workings. A line stratum has always been thought to mark the termination of the ore bodies and has been left as the floor of all the workings. This present body, however, began dipping below the line almost at the mouth of the tunnel and it was followed until it reached its present depth. This discovery may lead to the exploration of the ground underneath the lime floor in the older workings on the property and the consequent discovery of new ore bodies. As the Spearfish company can mine and treat ore running as low as $3.50 per ton at a profit, the body now being worked will net a handsome profit. It is thought the output for November will considerably exceed that for October.

STATES RULED LOW

EXTENSIVE USE OF CYANIDE FOR CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT.

The success of the small cyanide plant on Iron hill, has called the attention of capitalists to the opportunities afforded by this process to treat the low grade ores of the Cripple Creek district. A deal is reported to be in process of negotiation for the control of the present Ironclad hill plant and the erection of other similar plants is expected in the near future. There is a vast amount of this low grade stuff in the district and as $4 ore can be treated at a profit of $1.20 per ton investors are beginning to take an interest in the subject. A party of capitalists is understood to be endeavoring to obtain control of the present plant with a view to its use as the nucleus for a larger and more modern mill. The present plant is serviceable but is neither modern nor up-to-date, the tanks being of wood and the other equipment of equal antiquity. What is needed is a new and fully equipped plant and that such a plant will soon be erected seems assured.

STRATTON'S GOLD HILL GROUND HAS GOOD OUTLOOK.

The Stratton Cripple Creek Mining & Development company is now doing some extensive work upon its Gold hill property operating through the Chicago-Cripple Creek tunnel. A vein has recently been cut that makes the outlook for these properties much brighter. Development has been pushed south on the main tunnel and laterals have been extended on the country around the Geneva, where some very promising ore has been encountered. One vein in particular that has been cut gives promise of proving something big. This vein, which varies from one to three feet in width, is somewhat spotted and the samples give values all the way from $5 to $50 per ton. Up to this time the values have not held regular and at times scarcely any values can be obtained, while the next shot may bring values of $50 assays. It is impossible to tell what may be found when the lateral cuts under the Geneva dump line are has been taken out of those properties and it is believed that with greater depth large ore bodies will be encountered there. The dump on this property is also considered very valuable and many offers have been made the management for a lease.

JAMES SHINN MAKES GOOD STRIKE AT BUCKSKIN JOE.

James Shinn of Leadville has commenced operations upon a property near Alma from which he expects good results. The property is located in the little town of Buckskin Joe, one and a half miles from Alma. It has been abandoned for more than 15 years and it was thought to the attention of Mr. Shinn by an old resident of Alma. Upon examining the property he found a 30-foot shaft upon each claim and he has opened a vein in the bottom of each showing good values in lead and zinc. The formation encountered is the same found in Leadville at depths varying from 60 to 1,000 feet below the surface. Nature, through some cataclysmic move a the geologic ages, threw this formation which is at great depth near Leadville almost to the surface near Alma.

After working a few days on the property Mr. Shinn followed the shoot on the dip and the ore turned from lead and zinc to a high grade gold and silver with a lead and zinc base. A series of assays on the better grade ore showed from 20 to 30 ounces of silver and from one and one-half to two and one-half ounces of gold. Immediately after making the strike he located about 120 acres of ground adjoining the property and now has six men at work. If the ore shoot holds out it will make one of the biggest mines in the district. The vein is of a regular blanket form and is now about 30 inches in thickness.

The New Woman of Leisure.

The woman of leisure who wakes up to her possibilities must begin by training herself to do new, specific work. Let her leave to rags the making of shirts as well as each, who, but let her take up his former work which he has largely exchanged for hers. Someone must do some hard thinking. He has no time for it. She has. She must do harder thinking and thinking in new lines if her children are not to be spiritual degenerates; she educates them; their father pays their bills. The ideals of both are fighting for supremacy in the child's mind. If she is not sane and wise, and has no vision of the family, the nation, the world that should be, if she has no philosophy of life and is too apathetic to work to get one, she is of all enslaved creatures most contemptible and pitiable. For the salvation of her own family, the standard of life and thought of the larger class of women with less leisure and the physical conditions of the largest class, with no leisure, largely depend on her. If the brain power that goes into what were put on the school question of the time spent on learning to say nothing in French were put into the study of ideas in the field of economics or sociology or American history, to be expressed in clear English, if half of the energy spent on horse shows, golf, teas, cotillon and other amusements, devoted only when one's duties put people in them, were spent by coming face to face with real problems in some settlement—several things would happen. The prohibitionist, fretful woman who is trying her husband in forgery or a divorce court, the woman who finds life a busy bore, a monotonous, irritating kaleidoscope, and the sweet little lady who thinks herself too small and helpless even to venture to try to get at opinion on the big questions over which her supposedly wise husband shakes his head, would all begin to get the joy of real power. Men, absorbed in the technicalities of one business, would gladly learn from such wives some other aspect of the great problems of business, justice, and democracy and gain a wider horizon than their office or the stock exchange.—Lucia Ames Mead, in The Atlantic for November.

JUST IN TIME TO PREVENT ARREST.

Yesterday morning quite a crowd gathered at the corner of Pike's Peak avenue and Tejon street. Upon investigating the matter it was found that there was a gentleman discussing as to how he could get to Denver and avoid being arrested, as his mother-in-law was after him, whereupon several voices were heard that the Colorado & Southern railway runs trains to Denver most every hour. The gentleman immediately took the next car for the C. & S. depot, where he boarded the C. & S. train for Denver.

P. S.—Don't forget, the C. & S. offers the best service to Denver and Pueblo. There are others, but "none just as good."

Turkeys for nothing. Sunday's Gazette will tell you how to get them.

COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Nov. 20.—The mining stock market this morning showed continued improvement, the amount of business transacted being greater than for several days and prices showing strength. This strength was especially manifested in the mines list, not a loss occurring in the entire list. Acacia remained stationary, C. K. and N. and Doctor-Jack Pot made fractional advances. Elkton opened with a fractional gain but closed at yesterday's quotation. El Paso opened at the old figure and sold down to 67 but recovered to 68¼ on the close. Golden Cycle, Isabella, Lexington and Pharmacist were stationary and Pointer made a fractional gain. Portland gained $1.05. Prince Albert recovered to 3 cents and Vindicator sold at the stationary quotation. Among the preferred prospects, Blue Bell, Calera and Gold Bond sold at stationary figures. Bob Lee, Mariposa and Oriole made fractional advances. In the prospects Miss Colonial Dames scored an advance and Zoe gained to $9 per thousand. Gold Knob opened with a fractional gain but fell back to the old figure. Hermosa, Leon Cons. and Navajo were stationary.

BOTTLE BABIES

Bottle babies are so likely to get thin. What can be done? More milk, condensed milk, watered milk, household mixtures—try them all. Then try a little Scott's Emulsion in the bottle.

It does for babies what it does for old folks—gives new firm flesh and strong life. You'll be pleased with the result. It takes only a little in milk to make baby fat.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

EASTERN MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Report to Ladenburg, Thallmann & Co., o Otis & Hough.

New York, Nov. 20.—A firm undertone has been in evidence during today, from time to time, light recessions have occurred by reason of the traders selling, but as this class of sellers bought back their stock, it resulted in putting prices on a higher level. Commission business continued very light except within the last hour, when the market showed renewed strength upon the appearance of a much better buying demand from commission houses. The tractions continued to be a feature, Manhattan showing a steady further advance on renewed rumors of new ownership of the property. There was no particular news to affect the general list, but the absence of liquidating orders undoubtedly encouraged fresh buying for long accounts.

We have excellent authority for the statement that negotiations have been closed by which Manhattan will be leased to the Interborough company (the sub-way company,) on a guaranteed basis. The definite terms of this guarantee are not stated although our informant says he understands Manhattan will get all of its own earnings for the next two years and a guarantee of 7 per cent. thereafter.

The Mex can stocks will look very attractive should the bill go through Mexico congress to establish a gold basis, and from all accounts the bill will go through. The roads are doing very well, even better comparatively, than our own roads.

The American Sugar Refining company has advanced the price of granulated sugar 25 points to the entire Missouri river territory, placing it on a basis of $4.50. This is taken by the trade to mean that a fight will be on in sugar interests.

Demand sterling, $4.87 to $4.87¼.

CHICAGO GRAIN & PROVISIONS.

Furnished by Otis & Hough, Bankers and Brokers, 127 Pike's Peak Avenue.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Wheat—Liverpool, ⅝ to ⅝ higher. Paris, ¼ to 1¼ lower. Antwerp, unchanged. After a week of advancing prices, culminating in a sharp upturn yesterday, the market today had its natural reaction. It was an extremely active market, and the trading seemed to indicate that Armour was the big seller. Cash market steady and by no means urgent in demand. While the spring wheat situation is a fairly strong one, the situation in the winter wheat is hardly so suggestive at higher prices. Foreign markets seem to follow the advance here reluctantly and only one partially. The action of this market the past seven days shows clearly its artificial condition. It has been largely a case of muscle and scare. The December and May spreads narrowed to about ½ per bushel. We see no indications of any large concentrated holdings of December wheat and are strongly inclined to advise holders of December to change it to May at the ruling difference. Stocks of contract wheat is likely to be quite a liberal one by the first of the month and the shorts in December have pretty well covered. We are also inclined to think that bull operations in this market have culminated for the time being. Estimated cars, 70.

Corn—Liverpool ⅝ to ¾ higher. Market here was irregular and active. There was some little further covering by shorts in December early but the action of the market the past two days rather indicates that the short interest in this option has been materially reduced. Cash position continues strong and old corn in demand. There was further covering of shorts in May and a good deal of local selling at the advance. I see no reason to change our views in regard to May. Think it is worth the money and would buy it on fair reactions. Estimated cars, 115.

Oats—Market very quiet and otherwise featureless. While there is no great selling pressure in the market the strong spots seem to be brought about only by the strength in corn and wheat. Estimated cars, 105.

Provisions—Moderately active and easier. Receipts hogs 88,000 against 105,000. These arrivals are pretty generally running ahead of expectations and handicaps any otherwise bullish sentiment. There is a good cash demand for meats, but large demand is rather slow. Estimated stocks: pork 18,000, lard 6,000 tierces, ribs 3,000,000 pounds.

Metal Market.

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 20.—Copper was lower in London again today, declining 3s 9d with spot quoted at £50 12s 6d and futures at £50 17s 6d. The local market was also weak and a shade lower on some grades. Standard is quoted at $10.62½, nominal. Electrolytic at $11.25@11.37, casting at $11.12½@11.25, and lake at $11.40@11.50; the statistical position of the metal seems to be an object of dispute, it being claimed on the one hand that consumption is fully able to take care of production while on the other it is pointed out that available supplies are larger than a year or so ago when the price broke from 17 to 11 cents, while production is increasing. Tin underwent a partial recovery in London today, gaining 4s 6d with spot at £118 2s 6d and futures at £112 7s 6d, but still further declined locally where it closed at $28.00@28.10. Lead was unchanged and quiet here at 4¼ and in London at £16 15s. Spelter was lower in the home market, closing at $5.20, while in London advanced 1s 6d, closing at £19 12s 6d. Iron was lower in the English markets, Glasgow closing at 58s and Middlesboro at 49s 9d. The New York iron market was quiet and unchanged. Warrants nominal.

Denver Live Stock.

Denver, Nov. 20.—Cattle receipts continue liberal, about 1,400 arriving for today's market, the bulk of which came in late. The market opened a little slow, but towards noon it became more active and a fair amount of business was done. The general quality of the offerings was not very good and high prices were not reached, the bulk of the cattle selling at less than $2.75. The supply of killers is light and the quality only fair. Cows fairly good cows sold at $2.15 and a few steers sold at $3, which was the top on beef stuff. The feeder and stocker market was only fairly active, with the bulk of the steers selling at $2.50 to $3.00. The prospects are for heavy trading this afternoon, as buyers are in need of the cattle and are disposed to pay what they are worth. There is very little stuff on the market that could be called good and there was nothing fancy on sale. Prices are steady on all classes of offerings and the choice kinds are very firm with the tendency upwards. Receipts for the balance of the week are not expected to be very heavy and the market will no doubt continue in good condition and prices firm. All the eastern markets report steady to firm prices with fair receipts.

Hogs—There was a fair run of hogs in and under a good demand a clean up was made early. Prices ruled steady to strong and $6.35 was the top price paid, with bulk selling at round figures. The general quality of the offerings was good and fairly prices were paid.

Sheep—Sheep receipts were light, but the offerings were liberal, all the trainload that arrived yesterday are still out to market with prospects of a firm selling here. A few feeder lambs sold at steady prices, $3.00 being paid for a bunch that averaged 70 pounds. The demand continues strong for choice muttons and fair for feeders.

ROSE MELVILLE AS "SIS HOPKINS."

Reserved seats are on sale for "Sis Hopkins" next Monday evening.

In "Sis Hopkins," the famous play of Hoosier country life, which Mr. J. R. Stirling has piloted to a position in the front rank of American stage classics, Miss Rose Melville as Sis Hopkins, has occasion to rebuke the villain of the piece, who is trying to steal from her a little piece of land which has been her own property since she was a baby. She does so in these words: "You can't never make not nin' dolu' nothin' for nobody for nothin'." And the villain is foiled. There is that about this sentence which has attracted more attention than any other stage expression heard in a quarter of a century and it has been widely quoted. In all parts of the country it will be seen hanging over the desks of real estate dealers and business men in general and in Buffalo patients find it staring them in the face in two doctor's offices. During the summer a managerial friend of Mr. Stirling's who had gone to London to see the crown placed on the head of King Edward, sent to Mr. Stirling a hand bill which had been pretty generously thrown about in the streets of London by the concessionaire of a seat privilege. After reciting the advantages of the location on which he had an option and which really was a very desirable place from which to view the coronation procession the seat merchant announces his prices for seats and apologized for the high rate asked in these words: "It has been expensive to secure this location, build the seats and provide for the comfort of patrons, and besides 'you can't never make nothin' doin' nothin' for nobody for nothin'."

"The boys," wrote the manager, "are cutting out Sis Hopkins expression and pasting it in their hats and it has got to be quite the rage. I've heard it a hundred times within the past week."

It is little wonder that a play which abounds with homely philosophy which catches the Londoners, can run season after season and continue to grow in popularity.

Best Liniment on Earth.

L. M. McElroy, Greenville, Tex., writes, Nov. 3, 1900: "I had rheumatism last winter was down in bed six weeks; tried everything, but got no relief, till a friend gave me a part of a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment. I used it, and got two more bottles. It cured me, and I haven't felt any rheumatism since. I can recommend Snow Liniment to be the best liniment on earth for rheumatism." For rheumatic, sciatic or neuralgic pains, rub in Ballard's Snow Liniment, you will not suffer long, but it will be gratified with a speedy and effective cure. 25c, 50c and $1.00 at Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

POLICE BELIEVE THEY HAVE CAUGHT THE [illegible]

Have Been Relegated to the Same Division as That Which has Enwrapped Faro and Roulette in Colorado City----Nothing Doing in the Game.

Even the joys and mysteries of the policy wheel are doomed to banishment in this new order of things that has so suddenly come, like unto a baleful dream, into the life of the gamblers.

Some days ago the edict went forth from the powers that be to the powers that prey in Colorado City that policy must go the route traversed by the roulette, the faro bank and the Klondike. There had been two or three wheels running in the town across the way but the startling moral upheaval propelled by the ministers of Colorado Springs sounded a note of warning which the aforementioned powers that be took cognizance of. So the writers closed their books, bundled up their wheels and took themselves to climes more friendly and to pastures greener.

It is understood that one or two policy games are still running beneath the rose, but it is doubtful if the authorities know anything about it. The police of Colorado Springs have been chasing a colored gentleman for some days because they have a hunch that he is doing business with the magic numbers but they have not been able to find him as yet. There have been a number of arrests here in the past on that account and policy writing is strictly frowned upon by Chief King and his men. The tip to the writers to close in Colorado City where the wheels have been located came pretty direct and was obeyed at once. Policy was written all over the state for months, the drawing being held in Colorado City, but now that the authorities have directed that the wheels can no longer operate, it is presumed that those who run on the quiet will have to connne their operations to the local field.

In the eyes of the law policy is gambling. It has been ranked with craps as a negro game and while it is true that the negroes do contribute largely to its support, they are largely in the minority as compared to the white patrons. The machinations of policy are more wide-reaching than any other gambling game known because, unlike faro bank and the other games which run in gambling houses, it can be played by women and, even children. It is also much cheaper to play than any other and for that reason can be played by any and all classes. A five cent piece can be invested in the game and the large returns held out makes it more peculiarly alluring than any other game although the action is slow. "Policy fiends" are a well known class in every community.

HOP AT THE PLAZA—The hop last evening at the Plaza hotel under the direction of the hotel management was well attended and greatly enjoyed by friends of the house. Facts about Medicine.

"If your Vinol is such wonderful stuff, what's the need of harping about it so much in the paper? There are twenty medicines advertised on every sheet, and I don't believe what they say about any of them." Such was a remark heard in the store.

We answer: We advertise Vinol because we have found it a good thing for cough, lung troubles, insomnia, weak women and children, old people and run-down folks.

We advertise Vinol under our own name, and with our own guarantee because it is different from the twenty medicines our friend alluded to. For instance, it is not a secret preparation. It is endorsed by physicians. It has a surprising record of cures right here in town. It has our absolute guarantee of money back if you are not helped.

We advertise Vinol to increase its usefulness.

It's pleasant to take.

Emerson's Persistent Optimism.

The contrast offered by the sunny, cheerful sage of Concord, to his gloomy, dyspeptic friend the sage of Chelsea, is brought into striking relief by the revival of an anecdote of Charles Kingsley's. Carlyle, it seems, had been bored by Emerson's persistent optimism, and undertook to cure him of it. "I took him," he said, "to the lowest parts of London and showed him all that was going on here. This done, I turned to him, saying: 'And noo, mon, d'ye believe in the deevil noo?' 'Oh, no," replied Emerson, "all these people seem to me only parts of the great machine, and, on the whole, I think they are doing their work very satisfactorily." Then," continued Carlyle, "I took him doon to the house of commons, where they put us under the gallery. There I showed him and chief getting up after another and leeing and leeing. There I turned to him and said: 'And noo, mon, d'ye believe in the deevil noo?' He made me, however, just the same answer as before, and I then gave him up in despair."—("Success."

Gas—A Source of Heat, Light and Power.

The use of gas as a fuel and source of power has made wonderful strides during the past decade, and present indications point to a still more marked advancement in the methods of production and systems of lighting, heating, and power supply.

The systems of incandescent gas lighting, so prevalent and popular at the present time, depend for their efficiency wholly upon the heating power of gas, rather than on its luminosity. Water gas or producer gas will undoubtedly be the future heating and lighting agencies, and along the lines of their production will be directed most of the forces of investigation and improvement.

The future trend of gas production will probably be in favor of generator rather than retort gases which ought to result in purer gases, i. e., gases of a fairly constant chemical composition. —(Extract from an article by W. R. Crane in October Mines and Minerals.

[illegible] Like "Pride's Purse"

[illegible] Case Proves It.

"Now if your honor please, we object to that question and we also object to the general conduct of the counsel for the plaintiff," declared Attorney Henry McAllister Jr. during the trial of the case of John A. Scott vs. the Denver & Rio Grande Railway company when Attorney George Gardner, representing Scott, had asked D. Moore, a Rio Grande surgeon from Alamosa, some question. The "general conduct" of the counsel apparently meant its manner of asking the question which certainly was not calculated to inspire the witnesses for the defense with a great deal of confidence. Dr. Moore was one of the witnesses called by Mr. McAllister and he had come all the way from Alamosa to testify. Mr. Gardner had asked him a question relative to an examination of Scott which the physician had made after the accident in which he was injured.

When the doctor replied Mr. Gardner said, "and you mean to tell this jury that," which brought out Mr. McAllister's objection. The court sustained the objection to the question but made no observation concerning the "general conduct" objected to by the attorney for the defense.

Scott is suing for damages in the sum of $50,000 for injuries which he claims he received by jumping from a train on Cumbres pass when the train had become unmanageable, due, so it is claimed, to defective air brakes. Yesterday the defense began the introduction of its testimony and the case will probably last until this evening if it is given to the jury then. Among other witnesses put on the stand by the defense yesterday was a Rio Grande claim agent who testified that Scott had accepted $150 from him and given the company a release of all claims he might have as a result of his injuries. The surgeon was put on the stand to show that Scott's injuries were not as bad as he claimed.

Wells-Fargo Has Many [illegible]

Packages Not Claimed.

W. W. Cowen, local agent of Wells, Fargo and company, is checking off the list of unclaimed express packages at his office preparatory to sending them to Pueblo where they will be auctioned off on the 5th and 6th of December. The company has a large auction sale every year at which all unclaimed packages are sold to the highest bidder. This action is taken by the company in order that they may be reimbursed for the express charges on the unclaimed packages.

Although this is in the Colorado-New Mexico division none of the unclaimed business of New Mexico will be sold at Pueblo as the law of that territory requires that all such articles shall be sold at auction at some point in that territory. The auction will include the Utah and Wyoming express, however, unless the owners come in in the meantime and pay the charges thereon, there will be 3 packages from Colorado Springs sold for being delinquent on express charges. Two weeks ago when the notice of the auction was first posted and the names of the addressees of the delinquent made public there were a larger number of unclaimed packages but a great many have come in since that time and paid the necessary charges for securing their packages.

To one who has never attended a sale or auction of the kind mentioned above, it is indeed an interesting sight. Thousands of express packages of all kinds, sizes, shapes and containing every imaginable kind of merchandise are piled up and auctioned off, to highest bidder on each package becoming the owner of it.

The auction also presents a great many amusing incidents for when a person buys a package he does not always know just what he has purchased until the wrapper is taken off. Sometimes articles of great value, that have not been received by their rightful owner either through neglect, change of residence or voluntarily are bought for small sums. Jewelry is often sent through the express offices and never claimed by the people to whom it is addressed. Then, too, there is considerable advertising matter sent through the offices that is never claimed. Often a person will bid high and pay good sized express charges on a package only to open it and find that it contains bills for a circus or posters for a "wild west" show.

In the 39 delinquent packages at the local office are several grips containing clothes and other articles, an empty Belgian hare coop, several boxes, a few baskets, some cheese, which is presumed is not in the best of condition at the present time, a baby carriage, a case of bottles, some milk cans, etc.

"THE SILVER SLIPPER"

A YOUNGER SISTER OF "FLORODORA"

At the Broadway theater John C. Fisher is presenting a new work by the authors of "Florodora." It is another of the same school, but a trifle more aspiring, and, like many who swim out too far, I fear the attempt of Leslie Stuart, who wrote the music, is a little beyond his depth. "The Silver Slipper" is a rather poor imitation of "Florodora," and the sextet in the former is far superior to its counterfeit presentment. "The Silver Slipper" is rather tiresome, while it is full of bustle and appears to have enough people in it to make up several comic operas. It suffers for lack of melodies, and in that respect "Florodora" went far ahead. There are only a few airs in the present offering which will ever become popular. Good people and exquisite scenery cannot make a successful play without a good book and, in this style of entertainment, a good musical score.

Sam Bernard, Edna Wallace Hopper, Cyril Scott, Snitz Edwards, Josie Sadler and Mackenzie Gordon are all good people. Sam Bernard is almost wasted, for, though very excellent in his work, the part is not worthy of the artist. Edna Wallace is charming and has the best role in which she has been seen for many seasons. Especially attractive is she in the boy's display in the first act. There is a suggestion of the days when she played so well, before she branched out into comic operas. Edna Wallace can act, but she can't sing. It is even so with the one time favorite, Cyril Scott. His voice would not bring many dollars to the box office. Mackenzie Gordon can sing and does it beautifully and was most delightful in a song not belonging to the score called "Because I Love You." No, it is not the same familiar song of that name, but, incidentally, it is just as pretty.

There are moments during the performance when it was positively draggy, but a bit which may help the success of "The Silver Slipper" is a sort of novelty called the champagne dance. It is not a song, and, by the way, the girls in this are six of the strongest cards the show has. They are, according to the programme, "English dancing girls," and they are very good dancers. If the truth be told, "The Silver Slipper" will dance itself into favor if it ever becomes a big hit. It is a dancing opera, not a singing one. It is beautifully staged and costumed—in the latter respect far above the usual—but in my opinion I lacks catchiness.

In the first act "Tonight's the Night" by Stultz Edwards and chorus, "Two Eyes of Blue" by Mackenzie Gordon, "Glimpse" by Helen Hoyton and the Venus chorus, were the prettiest numbers. In the second act "The Baby With the Dimple and the Smile" by Edna Wallace and female chorus and "Four and Twenty Little Men" by the same lady and twenty-four men were the best. In fact, to my mind the two last named were the gems of the opera and the last one decidedly the singing hit of "The Silver Slipper."

A scene in the first act shows the hall of justice on the planet Venus, and the queen (Venus) is condemning one of her subjects because in high kicking one of her slippers fell to earth. The scene is beautiful and the lighting is most artistic, but Venus—she is beyond words. It is really a great mistake to have so unsuitable a person for such a part. The one other noticeable weakness of the production is the dearth of pretty women in the chorus. I could find but two I admired. Editing will much improve "The Silver Slipper."

CARLISLE INDIANS' FOOTBALL ELEVEN

One of the unique features of the football season is the team of the Carlisle Indians. The Pennsylvania institution has long been famed for its lefthand chasing outfit, and the caliber of the game the aborigines are putting up bids fair to add considerably to their fame. Glen S. Warner, the former star player of the Cornell eleven, is coaching the Indians, and he has drilled into the present students at Carlisle a thorough knowledge of the advanced principles of modern gridiron tactics.

Two of the Indians that hold the main spot of public attention are Foster Charles and Nikifer Schonchuk. Charles has risen to fame through his great kicking ability, being almost a second Hudson, the former Carlisle quarterback, in this respect. Charles is a member of the Oneida tribe of upper New York and weighs 151 pounds. He is the best punter and drop kicker in the squad, but needs more confidence in himself if he wishes to do his best work.

Schonchuk, the Eskimo.

Many stories have been written concerning Schonchuk during the last year. He is generally believed to be a full blooded Eskimo of the type found in the far north by Lieutenant Peary and other explorers. As a matter of fact, however, Schonchuk is an Aleutian, coming from the string of islands west of the Alaskan peninsula and belonging to the United States.

Schonchuk is a typical Eskimo in appearance. He has a stolid expression, dark complexion and half open almond eyes. He talks very little and, despite the climatic change to which he has been introduced, appears to be in good physical condition.

Schonchuk played with the Indians last year for the first time. He adapted himself to football with surprising facility and did such good work that he won without question a position on this season's team.

The Indians have a fast squad, and, while they were scored against somewhat largely during the early part of the season their record for the year will surely compare favorably with that of any other team of their weight in the country.

Coach Warner has a novel scheme for instructing his dusky charges. In order to give them an accurate knowledge of the game's technicalities he assembles them at regular periods before a blackboard and draws outlines of the various plays, showing the position of every man at the kickoff and the lineup for scrimmages, and he also pictures the formation of interference, etc., in going through guard, tackle and around the ends.

At first the Indians tried valiantly to evade attendance at these sessions, and after several cases of "hookie" Warner threatened absentees with dismissal from the squad. An hour of sitting still seemed an uncalled for hardship to the strenuous aborigines, and Schonchuk was particularly obstreperous.

"No being on earth loves the rough, outdoor side of the game more than the Indian," says Warner, "but the technical explanations bore him exceedingly."

Yale Should Win.

After a careful comparison of the personnel of the various large eastern teams this year, I have come to the conclusion that Yale will win the championship. The wearers of the blue are undeniably in the best shape at the present time and have several points of advantage over their strongest rivals, the Harvard players. Yale's line is undoubtedly the best in the country. Her men are heavy and shifty. They are, moreover, veteran linesmen with the exception of the ends, and with a center trio like Holt, Glass and Goss there is hardly a doubt that the Elis will be able to hold firm against any team.

A strong center is a wonderful brace and stimulus to a team. When the backs are sure their line will not be thrown back on them before the ball is fairly in play, they naturally become more confident and save three or four seconds' time in which to get the ball from the quarter, form interference and start the play toward the scrimmage line. No matter how strong the backs may be, they can do nothing when their center men are tossed aside at will by opponents and men break through.

Behind the fine Yale line also well fixed. While she is not decidedly the superior of Harvard or Princeton in this respect, she can match them man for man and with the added strength and weight in the line should be able to get better service from the back field.

The shadows of coming events show that Harvard will give the blue a royal struggle when they clash Nov. 22, and the fiercest kind of an endeavor will be made to repeat the triumph of a year ago, when Yale had not the slightest show against the warriors of John Harvard. Captain Kernan knows his business from a to z, and with the experience of past games against Yale should be able to evolve a system of play that will puzzle the New Havenites.

At Princeton.

Princeton has suffered from a lack of material for three years, and the coaches had serious vacancies to fill.

The plucky Tigers sadly yearn for the days of a few years ago, when such names appeared on her gridiron roster as Hillebrand, Ad Kelly, Billy Bannard, Garry Cochran, the Poes, Palmer, Church, Baird, "Biffy" Lea, Galley and the rest. Yes, those were rosette days for Princeton, and it is to be hoped that her football star will not descend further before the revival comes. Of course the Tigers are with the leaders in baseball, but they would cross every diamond victory from their slate if it would improve their chances to win against Yale at New Haven in the coming battle.

The two best men at Princeton are Captain Ralph Davis, one of the leading ends in the college world, who won a place on the All America's team last year, and John ("Fat") De Witt, the champion weight manipulator and stellar tackler. Davis is an unassuming player, attending to his own business all the time and putting every particle of his energy into the game. De Witt is inclined a bit toward "stag play" and never loses an opportunity to parade before the admiring spectators, but at the same time he is a brilliant performer and last year was practically the anchor of the whole Tiger line. He is a great athlete and it is a pity that he seems to realize it.

FOOTBALL • CRICKET • GOLF • ROWING • BASEBALL • BOWLING • BOXING • PUGILISM.

It is a peculiar fact that the day of the universally formed individual football player is passing. Up to about three years ago we would be treated during the pigskin chasing season to laudatory accounts of the doings of some two or three players in different colleges, and these men would occupy the middle of the stage to the exclusion of almost every one else. Indeed, the great stars were treated as demigods, as heroes whose name and fame should never pass from the lips of men, and it is truly a wonder that such players as Phil King of Princeton, Gregg of Yale, Hinkey of Yale, Hirschberger of Chicago, Hallowell of Harvard, Hare of Pennsylvania, McClung of Yale and Wheeler and Kulley of Princeton did not become afflicted with the swelled kind of swelled heads through the overabundance of adulation showered on them.

But those men had their day at a time when individual playing was more of a distinctive feature of the game than at present. Team work was not developed to an advanced degree, and consequently a man could find ample opportunity to make his ability noticeable. The players of today are possibly as accomplished in some instances as their illustrious predecessors, but owing to the altered conditions are compelled to content themselves with being parts of a machine, an integral part of a combination in which superior individual ability is but an aid to the advancement of the interests of the whole team.

Creedmoor as a "Barometer."

George H. Ketcham of Toledo, owner of Creedmoor, has mapped out a stirring winter campaign for his game champion, and between now and Christmas the great stallion will appear on practically every track of importance in the parts of the south where cold weather does not penetrate.

There has been considerable talk of a trip abroad for Creedmoor, but wisely Mr. Ketcham states that the champion will not be allowed to cross the Atlantic at present and perhaps not at all. It would be foolishness of the most pronounced sort to expose Creedmoor to the risks of a transatlantic voyage even if the venture would prove profitable, for there is a good chance that the son of MacGregor will get lower the trotting mark to the two minute notch, and trips to Europe would undoubtedly do him lasting harm.

It has been the experience of a score of horsemen that a racing animal is seldom able to do himself entire justice after a long sea trip, especially when heavy weather is encountered. Trainers that have accompanied horses across the Atlantic say that the sensitive racing machines suffer pitifully from seasickness and that the effects do not wear off for a long time after landing.

Ban Johnson a Great Joker.

Isn't Ban Johnson a funny fellow? Oh, dear me! I don't think even Bill Nye was his equal at making people laugh. And that latest joke of his! Ha, ha! Of course you remember it—the list of players he announced as having signed to play on the American league club he purposes placing in New York next summer. But the newspaper men made the mistake of putting the story with the news instead of on the joke page, and so some silly folk were led to believe Ban had been talking sense instead of nonsense.

For it was a great joke—Ban's very greatest, in fact. Let's see; what were those names? Keeler ("Wee Willie" wouldn't leave Brooklyn for Mike De Armond. Johnson could offer him), Leach, Conroy and Smith of Pittsburg, whose contracts Barney Dreyfuss has tucked away safely in his safe and a few others. Fine, indeed, it is to have the ability to play the part of Jeffersonian extraordinary to the American public. And Ban will probably continue his funny ways until the end of the chapter. His name should go down to fame linked with those of Artemus Ward, Mark Twain and Mr. Dooley.

Western Golf Season Closes.

Our western golfers have laid by their sticks until next spring and from now on during the winter they will spend most of their time refighting the battles of the past year. Chicago and the west played an important part in the national golf of 1902, and the season closed with both the open and amateur titles held in the Windy City by Lawrence Auchterlonie and Louis N. James, respectively. Both champions are members of the Glen View Golf and Polo club, about five miles out of the city proper, and it was Auchterlonie, the organization's professional instructor, who taught young James to play the game. It is interesting to note that the Glen View club had the honor of holding the open and amateur title once before—in 1896, when James Foulis and H. J. Whigham, respectively, were victors on the Shinnecock Hills, (N. Y.) club links.

Glen View In the Lead.

As was the case last year, Glen View led the western clubs in activity. The club began the season by holding the western championships, closing with both of the men's titles to its credit and retaining through the stellar work of Miss Bessie Anthony the western women's championship.

Of course the sensation of the year was the victory of James in the national tourney. The nineteen-year-old lad's win was claimed by various of his rivals to have been a fluke, but his performances prior to the match as well as afterward entirely disproved this statement. He won the trophy strictly on his merits, as even Travis will acknowledge. In practice for the championship meet he covered the course several times in 80, showing that he had good reason to qualify. Before leaving Chicago for Princeton university he defeated Phelps E. Hoyt on the home course, handing in a card of 74. Hoyt was formerly the western champion.

Jabez White Versus Terry or Corbett.

Matchmaker Betteson of the National Sporting club of London is anxious to arrange matches for Jabez White, the crack English lightweight, with some of America's best fighters. He has offered Young Corbett and Terry McGovern good sized purses to go abroad for the purpose of meeting White.

Betteson desires to have Corbett or McGovern fight White at 134 pounds. This weight would probably please the American mitt puncher, for they are nearing the point where it is difficult to keep down to the featherweight mark. Corbett in particular finds trouble in keeping himself in this division, for his bones are growing rapidly, and naturally they cannot be affected by training or reducing methods.

White is the lad that secured a decision over "Spike" Sullivan during the festivities held in London several months ago.

Since leaving college Mr. Churchill has traveled extensively in connection with his engineering and allied work throughout the United States. He has been twice abroad, two years of his boyhood having been spent in England, where he went to school and where he enjoyed the unique distinction for an American of being captain of the football team.

It is a matter of satisfaction to the owners of foreign built automobiles that their machines may be taken abroad and returned to this country within a specified time without being subjected to customs duty.

This also applies to American built motor cars. UP TO THE ROOF

WORK STARTS TODAY ON TILING ON Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Red Spanish Tiling to Be Used—New York Electric Co. Is at Work on the Electric Wiring.

Work will be commenced today on the tiling of the new Y. M. C. A. building. The woodwork of the roof is nearly all completed and is sufficiently prepared for part of the work to be begun on the laying of the tile. Large red Spanish tile will be used. The New York Electric company, which was awarded the contract for doing the necessary electrical wiring for the building, put a force of men to work yesterday and it is thought will have the job completed in a few weeks. Their contract calls for the furnishing of electric bells and annunciators, but nothing but the wiring and the running of the necessary speaking tubes will be done at the present time.

The plaster of the terra cotta corbles around the building is also completed with the exception of that above the main entrance, which will not be finished until the building has nearly reached completion.

Secretary Day of the association says that the building, at least the gymnasium, will be ready for partial occupancy by the first of the year.

[illegible] TAKEN [illegible] DENVER

Makes Statement of Causes That Have Led to Present Litigation.

HE ARRIVED HERE LAST NIGHT

Came Direct From St. Louis and Assumes Charge of Affairs for the Majority Directors of the Company.

President John T. Milliken of the Golden Cycle company arrived in the city from St. Louis at 9:30 last evening and went immediately to the offices of the company. After examining the papers in the case, Mr. Milliken gave out the following statement:

"In order that the people may fully understand the legal proceedings instituted by Tucker, Ballard and company, A. E. Carlton, F. J. Campbell and others, it becomes necessary to recite a few of the facts regarding the Golden Cycle promotion.

"In August, 1900, an option was obtained from Mosier & Smith on the Golden Cycle mine for $500,000. A commission of $100,000 was made, $25,000 of which was mine. In December of that year, I made a contract with Tucker, Ballard and company to get enough of this stock at 75 cents to pay the $500,000 and a debt of $40,000 against the mine.

"On account of treachery in the offices of Tucker, Ballard and company, they were unable to carry out their undertaking. For their services this brokerage firm were to receive fourtenths of the profits and myself and associates were to receive six-tenths.

"When it became apparent that Tucker, Ballard and company could not keep their contract, a syndicate was formed composed of Tucker, Ballard and company, A. E. Carleton, F. J. Campbell, myself and associates to underwrite 272,000 shares at 70 cents. This stock was underwritten and a second contract entered into, the terms of which Tucker, Ballard and company failed to carry out, and when I insisted on the fulfillment of the terms of this contract or an equitable contract similar, the trouble between Tucker, Ballard and company and myself commenced. At any rate a substitute contract as dictated by me was accepted by them and the others. The last payment on the mine was made May 31, 1901.

"On that day the remainder of the syndicate stock was divided as follows at 30 cents per share:

Tucker, Ballard and company	293,333
A. E. Carlton	175,333
F. J. Campbell	117,000
Myself	300,000
F. G. Logan	66,666

"As soon as this stock was delivered and the pool dissolved, Tucker, Ballard and company and A. E. Carlton began to sell as rapidly as they could, and have been selling ever since until now Tucker, Ballard and company and Shepherd have in their names 122,600, A. E. Carleton has 60,000 and F. J. Campbell 12,500.

"I now own 235,467 shares and F. G. Logan 136,000. It is evident, therefore, that as Messrs. Campbell, Carlton, Tucker, Ballard and Shepherd disposed of their stock Mr. Logan and I increased our holdings.

"It soon became evident after taking possession of the mine that the report of Mr. Charles J. Moore, who was employed by Tucker, Ballard and company to expert the mine, greatly overestimated its resources. In June, 1901, fire burned the plant. At that time the mine was actually not making expenses. In October, before the mine resumed operations, I visited Colorado Springs and it appeared to me that Tucker, Ballard, Campbell and Carleton had been loading everybody with their stock with full knowledge that Moore's report was wrong, the mine in debt and its outlook blue.

"Knowing that the public was being induced to buy stock without a knowledge of the mine's condition, I demanded of Messrs. Campbell and Ballard that a statement be issued to the stockholders by the company in order that they might know its true condition. A majority of the board, Campbell, Shepherd and Ballard, strenuously opposed this. To prevent a further slaughter of the stock Mr. Logan and I bought all of Campbell's stock at 59½ cents.

"I then discovered that it was the intention of Carlton, Tucker, Ballard, Shepherd and Campbell, owning a small minority interest, to control the property. I then set about securing a majority of the stock, which is now locked up in the First National bank of Denver.

"After the annual meeting in March, 1902, I visited the mine, and was informed that the general manager was ordering supplies bought from favorites at exorbitant prices, disregarding the attempts of other dealers to sell the Golden Cycle mine the same goods for less money. As president I immediately deprived Mr. Campbell, the general manager, of all purchasing power and gave strict instructions at the mine to buy where goods could be had at the lowest price, and play no favorites.

"The mines ores were being sampled at 75 cents per ton at the Rio Grande sampler, in which Messrs. Campbell and A. E. Carlton were large owners. In conjunction with Messrs. Giddings, Lennox, Colburn and others, I secured from Taylor & Brunton a rate of 60 cents a ton for sampling, which, on the Golden Cycle output amounts to a saving of about $6,000 per year to the stockholders.

"Last May Mr. Campbell left for a five weeks' sojourn in Europe, but before departing instructed the clerk at the mine to send in requisitions on the treasurer for $200 per month, and I instructed the treasurer not to pay, as no officer or employe of this company will ever draw a cent out of its treasury except for value received, so long as I am president.

"As everybody well knows, the mine owners of the Cripple Creek district were compelled, in self protection, to build at great expense a railway into Cripple Creek. The advent of their road reduced the cost of transporting the Golden Cycle ores 53 1-3 per cent. I thought it wise for the Golden Cycle Mining company to join hands with Messrs. Giddings, Burns, Lennox, Howbert, Colburn and other mine owners of the district, and purchased for the Golden Cycle company 500 shares of Short Line stock for $2,100, for which the company has been offered $4,000, but this stock is pooled with that of the other mine owners, and the Golden Cycle company is thereby guaranteed the same privileges and protection that the other mines enjoy.

"A meeting of the Golden Cycle directors was called for October 3 last, for the special purpose of granting the right of way for the Short Line railway across the Golden Cycle ground and to its ore bins. At that meeting there were present F. L. Ballard, L. E. Hill and myself. Ballard requested that he be not placed in a position to vote on this resolution because if he were forced to vote he would be compelled to vote against the resolution granting the Short Line a right of way because of his and his firm's pecuniary obligations to A. E. Carlton, a director of the opposing railway. I then stated to Mr. Ballard that to relieve him of this embarrassment the president and secretary would give the Short Line the right of way and at the first full meeting of the board of directors of the Golden Cycle Mining company the deed would be still further endorsed. This, Mr. Ballard stated, was entirely satisfactory to him, and he thanked me for my consideration.

"At this same meeting of the board of directors the office of general manager was abolished because it was a useless expense to the stockholders. Now it will be apparent to everyone that this fight by the minority is inspired by those interested in the Midland Terminal railway against the Short Line.

"It is true that the treasurer of the Golden Cycle company loaned to F. G. Logan and myself $7,000 on our joint note, payable on demand. There are four millions of dollars behind this note that the treasurer holds. There are $30,000 more in the treasury which can be had on the same terms by any other stockholder who can give satisfactory security. Mr. Ballard, who is now complaining about this loan, had taunted the treasurer with not getting interest on the company's surplus, and F. J. Campbell who holds up his hands in holy horror at this act, has repeatedly stated to me and Mr. Hill, the treasurer, that the Vindicator company often loaned money to its directors.

"The charges that Mr. Hill and I are running the mine for our personal benefit are too absurd for serious consideration, especially coming from such men as A. E. Carlton and Tucker, Ballard and company, who have managed the Doctor-Jack Pot deal, the Gold Dollar deal, the Eclipse, the Blanche and Gold Sovereign deals. Because I will not permit these men to slaughter the Golden Cycle company by all kinds of rake-offs to samplers, supply houses or trading companies in which they may be interested and because I will not allow Mr. Campbell to draw $1,000 of the company's money that I do not consider him entitled to, I am villified and slandered.

"It is true that Mr. F. G. Logan and I have bought a control of the Theresa stock. What of that? The Theresa was $46,000 in debt and is now under lease to L. E. Hill, who has permission from me to prospect it from the Golden Cycle shaft, paying the Golden Cycle a profit. Similar arrangements were made by F. J. Campbell for the Vindicator with the Little, similar arrangements to this have been made by A. E. Carlton for the Doctor-Jack Pot company, with the Work company, and I see nothing wrong in them.

"In conclusion I would say that the Golden Cycle Mining company is a stockholder of the Short Line railroad, and it proposes to give that road its business, and it is because of this fact that this fight is started on me.

Mr. L. E. Hill, secretary and treasurer of the company, added the following statement on his own account:

"Mr. Milliken has made a rather full statement, so I shall merely add that the books and accounts have been at all times open to the inspection of stockholders, and the treasurer's accounts are straight. To say or intimate anything to the contrary is conscious and malicious misrepresentation. Mr. A. E. Carlton is behind all the allegations, the others, in my opinion, merely do his bidding, and it between Carlton and myself there is only one honest man, I am willing to let those who know us both decide which he is."

COMMISSIONERS CAN'T COME TO AGREEMENT WITH GREENLEE & SON.

Stone Contractors on Court House Want Extras and Members of the Board Want Cuts—Battle Conference Yesterday.

The county commissioners and the stone contractors who have done the work on the court house held a conference yesterday in the hope of coming to a settlement of the stone contractors' accounts, but the efforts were futile.

The points of difference will be left to a board of arbitration.

The bills of the stone contractors are about $500 in excess of what the members of the board think they should be and the conference yesterday was with a view to coming together on the disputed points. The contractors, Greenlee & Son, have items for numerous "extras" in their bills that the commissioners are unwilling to allow and the commissioners desire to cut out several items that the contractors are unwilling to yield anything upon.

An arbitrator will be appointed to settle the points of disagreement.

The men were bridgemen in the employ of the Rio Grande and were working on the abutments of the bridge over a chasm near Buttes. In their haste to get out of the way of an approaching train some of the masonry was displaced, falling upon the legs of both men.

The injured men were taken to St. Mary's hospital where Sporri died yesterday morning. Noonan is in a fair way to recovery. Sporri was about 30 years old and a native of Switzerland. He had no relatives in this country so far as known.

W. B. Walker's Business Place Was the Object of the Bombardment—Robbers Secured Little Booty.

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning, Mr. W. B. Walker's store at Monument was entered and his safe blown open with black powder. Two charges were placed in the door, which blew the doors off the safe and shattered the entire glass front of the store.

The residents of that part of the town were awakened by the explosion and several got up but could not see anything and not knowing whence the noise came, retired again.

The robbers secured only about $5, but the loss to Mr. Walker was much more as the pane of glass in the store front were large and his safe is completely ruined. There is no clew as to who did the deed, but considerable excitement prevails in Monument, as this is the second store that has been robbed there in the past two years.

GRATIFYING RESULTS FROM LIFE SAVING SERVICE

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 19.—The general superintendent of the life saving service has rendered his report for the year 1902. It continues to show most gratifying results of the work of this humane organization.

The number of disasters to vessels within the scope of the operations of the service during the last year was greater than ever before with the exception of the years 1898 and 1901, yet the loss of life was very small. The number of lives lost from documented vessels—those of five tons burden or over—was only 19, while six were lost from smaller craft—sail boats, row boats, etc., making a total of 25—a number far below the average.

The amount of property imperiled was greatly in excess of that of any previous year in the history of the service, owing to the unusual number of large vessels involved. No less than 54 vessels of over 1,000 tons burden—of which number 33 were steamers—suffered disaster.

The loss of property, however, was comparatively light. The number of disasters to documented vessels was 285. On board these vessels were 3,424 persons, of whom 19 were lost. The estimated value of the vessels was $9,253,630, and that of their cargoes $5,139,380, making the total value of property involved $14,393,010. Of this amount $12,125,220 was saved and $2,267,790 lost. The number of vessels totally lost was 51. In addition to the foregoing, there were 351 casualties to undocumented craft—sail boats, row boats, etc.—carrying 796 persons, six of whom perished. The value of property involved in these instances is estimated at $174,120, of which $167,575 were saved, and $6,545 lost.

MRS. EDDY'S CONCESSION.

ACCORDING TO NEWSPAPER reports, Mrs. Eddy, head of the Christian Scientists, has issued an order forbidding her followers from trying to cure contagious or infectious diseases. Probably it would be nearer the truth to say that she has notified her followers to call for the services of regularly qualified physicians and nurses in such cases.

This order is the outcome of recent cases in eastern states where there have arisen grave dangers to public health and life through the neglect of the Christian Scientists to observe scientific precautions against the spread of disease.

In explaining Mrs. Eddy's action, Mr. Farlow, her spokesman, undertook to justify her course. To the question how the Christian Science healers can tell if a patient is suffering from a contagious malady, Farlow said that they could tell as readily as a physician or any layman.

"We differ only in our mental recognition," said he, "and it is only in our mental recognition that our treatment applies. In our mental work we deny the reality of the malady, though in its physical aspect we recognize the malady.

"It is proper to call a physician," he continued, "in a contagious disease but the healer should keep on praying.

"The action of Mrs. Eddy is not a concession, but simply a bowing to present conditions; no fear of punishment for her followers prompted her. It was simply because of considerable agitation. That is, while I do not know, it is probably recognition of unjust demands—turning the left cheek, so to speak.

"The instruction to healers not to care for contagious ailments was issued, doubtless, because of a desire to avoid conflict with the benighted authorities."

Individual healers, however, are not inclined to take so reasonable a view of it. Mrs. Eddy's prohibition is admitted to be a radical departure from Christian Science practice, and inconsistent with the belief that disease is merely an evil error of "mortal mind." If the Christian Science theory is right, there ought not to be any more difficulty with scarlet fever and diphtheria and smallpox than with rheumatism or neuralgia.

That, however, is a matter that concerns the followers of the Eddy cult, rather than the general public. If the Christian Scientists choose to observe the laws of quarantine and disinfection merely as a matter of civil duty, they are quite at liberty to do so, so long as the laws are observed. If the general public is protected the theoretical inconsistencies and their explanation are not a matter of great importance.

NO POPULISTS IN CONGRESS.

THERE will be some interesting changes in the forthcoming official congressional directory, which will be issued for the short session of the 57th congress.

Senator Harris of Kansas, who has hitherto been classed as a Populist, in spite of the fact that he has been acting with the Democrats and has received his committee appointments as a Democrat, has notified the directory publishers that he is a Democrat.

With Senator Harris off the Populist roll, the new directory will not contain the name of a single Populist senator or representative. Senator Teller, it is said, will retain his designation as a Silver Republican, although he is the Democratic candidate for re-election, indorsed by the Democratic state convention, and it is also said that Mr. Shafroth will stay on the list as a "Silverite," although he ran on the Democratic ticket this year, with results that have not as yet been officially declared.

Six bolts of Idaho, who walked out of the St. Louis Republican national convention in 1896 with Teller, classified himself as a Democrat; Jones and Stewart of Nevada, once silver Republicans, now have the word Republican after their names, and Newlands, who is scheduled to succeed Stewart, calls himself a Democrat.

The cause of the Populist downfall is evident. The party started with a good outfit of political principles. It sold these to Democracy for offices obtained through the trick of fusion, and the Democracy being the stronger party, overregarded fusion merely as a temporary stage by which former Republican voters were to be led into the Democratic ranks. The temporary stage has passed, the Populist party has disappeared, the Democratic party has gained some voters and has lost others, and take it all in all, elections in which the Republicans carried every northern and western state except Rhode Island and Nevada summed up the net result of the Fusion movement.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND SOUTHERN REPUBLICANS.

SOME RECENT REMOVALS and appointments of federal officeholders in the southern states have given ground for the belief that President Roosevelt has some very decided opinions in regard to the relations between the southern negroes and the Republican party. There is also some talk of action along the line of limiting the representation of the southern states in the next Republican national convention in proportion to the vote cast in those states for the Republican ticket.

It is obviously unfair that the delegates to the national convention from states where there is not the least possibility of Republican electors, and where in some cases not even the empty formality of nominating a complete Republican ticket is observed, should have the same influence in proportion to their total population as other states where the vote of the entire population is freely cast and honestly counted.

President Roosevelt's attitude is said to be strongly against what is known as the "Lily White" movement among southern Republicans, that is to say, the building up of a Republican organization from which negroes are excluded either as leaders, voters or officeholders.

Whatever the president says or does, a host of people are ready to explain, in a dozen different ways, how his political fortunes are affected thereby, and how he is trying to secure his renomination by skillful maneuvers. But those who know the president best do not take very much stock in such explanations. He tries to do what he believes to be right and for the interests of the people, and has confidence in the people to maintain his political fortunes.

In the present instance, it is probable that the rights and welfare of southern American citizens, white and black, are causing him much more concern than the possible effect of his actions upon the delegates to the next Republican national convention, if indeed he is giving any serious thought to this latter subject in affecting his official duties.

The problems of the negro in the south and of the Republican party in the south are most difficult ones, but the straightforward and sincere actions of President Roosevelt will do much more toward their solution than could be accomplished by the careful and hesitating policies of any self-seeking politician.

AN EXAMPLE OF IRRIGATION POSSIBILITIES.

A TYPICAL EXAMPLE of the irrigation projects that are now being considered in this state, some of which are certain to become realized in the near future, was given publicity recently by the Pueblo Chieftain. This mammoth scheme is planned by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, and has been under consideration for some time past, and the preparations have been carried forward quietly.

"The proposed plan is to leave the Arkansas river at a point west of Canon City and proceed along the bluffs to the second mesa between Pueblo and the St. Carries river where it empties into Salt creek and the new reservoirs of the C. F. & I. company and ultimately into Lake Minnequa. A connection may be made with the Bessemer ditch to supplement the water supply there in a dry season.

"At the point where the ditch leaves the river a large dam will be built, which will leave the normal flow of water in the bed of the river but will divert the flood surplus into the ditch. Along the ditch four magnificent reservoirs will be constructed for storage of the water. Half of the water in the Twin lakes has been arranged for and a reservoir almost the size of the Twin lakes is being constructed near Leadville. In addition hundreds of wells will be sunk in the low lands for the underflow, which is greater than the natural flow of the river. Lower bodies of water are to be tapped through artesian wells.

"If these plans materialize, over 10,000 acres of the most fertile land adjacent to Pueblo that has for years been considered range and grazing land and which is supposed to have millions of gallons of petroleum under it, will be made to bloom and blossom like the rose and will be the homes of thousands of people. The entire section of Pueblo county known as Bogg's flat, together with miles of land southwest of Pueblo, will be put under one of the largest ditches in the world and by means of a system of reservoirs, which will hold the flood water of the Arkansas river, it will be supplied with water."

It will be observed that the main reliance for water supply for this enterprise is to be the flood waters of the river, which are to be stored and used when needed in this way the ordinary river supply, now full appropriated, will not be interfered with and the surplus waters that now run to waste will be made to serve the purposes of the farmers of Pueblo county.

MORE CHOLERA AT MANILA.

NEWS comes from Manila of a fresh outbreak of cholera in the islands and the suffering from it of some of the American soldiers in the islands.

It is well established as a fact that cholera is a preventable disease, but it is almost impossible to prevent it among natives, who, like the Filipinos refuse to be governed by the ordinary rules of health and of civilized decency. As for the Americans they suffer the consequences of their environments.

In this particular the Americans in the Philippines are having an experience very similar to that of the British in India during the prevalence of the plague. Quarantine, disinfection and sanitary regulations are not only contrary to the native customs but they are an offense to native religion, and in the past year the American authorities in Manila have had more trouble in trying to stamp out the cholera than in enforcing all the ordinary laws.

Vice-Governor Luke E. Wright, who has just returned from the Philippine islands, recently said in illustration of his general statement of American progress in the islands: "I venture to say that inside of five years there will be more English spoken in the Philippines than there ever was Spanish after 350 years of Spanish rule." And it is safe to say that the islands are better governed now, and with greater regard for the rights and liberties of the natives, than they ever would have been in the 20th century under the rule either of the Spaniards or of those natives who undertook to drive the Americans out of the islands.

The new Flatiron building in New York is fitted with standpipes in such a way that it may be used in fighting fires in all neighboring buildings, and it thus becomes a means of fire protection, instead of fire danger.

Announcement is made that Loudon Punch will hereafter print serious articles as well as British jokes. But there is one to tell them part.

FROM THE PRESS OF THE NATION.

Manicuring for Dogs.
(Chicago Record-Herald.)

One of the latest fads adopted by New York society women is the manicuring of their pet dogs. There being no poor children, no homeless waifs, no shivering orphans, no hungry mothers who weep over pale and miserable little ones in New York, it is necessary for some of that city's pets of fortune to hunt for new ways in which to spend the money they don't need and the dog manicure offers them a new field of usefulness.

It is said that the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burke Roche hires a young woman to do nothing but nurse and manicure her pet poodle or spaniel, or whatever it may be. Its toilet articles are as dainty as any that might be found in a spoiled belle's outfit. Silver-backed brushes, baskets very expensively fitted up with cushions and silken covers, gold-mounted combs, jeweled powder boxes, expensive files for the dog's nails, scissors of costly patterns, and silver soap boxes make up a part of Miss Roche's dog's outfit. The dog is bathed every day in scented water and a special dainty tub; then its hair is curled and enough other things are done to it to keep the woman whose duty it is to look after the dog busy most of the day.

Mrs. George Gould and Mrs. Jack Bloodgood are other New York society women who have their pet dogs cared for and pampered after the manner adopted by Miss Roche.

Lucky little dogs! How sadly they might fare if there were human beings in that great city of New York who need nursing, or food, or bathing, or anything else that they do not have because of their poverty. The New York society lady who employs a manicure artist and a nurse for her pet dog is doing much in the way of advancing civilization. Let us honor them for their noble aims and high achievements.

Press and Politics.
(Brooklyn Eagle.)

Part of the cause for the "apathy" which the politicians thought they saw in the recent canvass was due to the improved tone of journalism. Recall papers in this vicinity. The Sun, the Tribune, the Times, the Evening Post, the Commercial Advertiser, the Staats Zeitung, the Mail and Express, the Daily News and the Telegram and other papers in Manhattan were marked by an absence of hysterics. Such was also the case with the papers of western and southern cities that directly came under our observation. The political organs of course abounded in ram pant and rancid nonsense and to a degree in personal attacks, but they did not succeed in suggesting that they themselves were really excited or were really exciting others. The throwing of fits was rare anywhere and rewarding nowhere.

The harmony of journalism with civilization naturally surprised, if it did not confound the professional politician. They went through their customary circus ring business, but they went through with it in vain. The stereotyped and habitual spellbinders were in evidence, but to very little effect. They roared in the old-fashioned way, but their meetings were poorly attended and the applause which they commanded was more derisive than favorable. The best journalism discovered that argument, analysis, good nature and self-respect were more appreciated by their readers than departure from these qualities would likely be.

Explanation of this agreeable fact is to be found in the growing independence of newspapers. There is no more reason for a newspaper to be the organ or mouthpiece of either party than there is for it to stand in that relation to a religious sect. Indeed, in the field of religion itself, the strictly denominational organ is giving away to the liberal and non-theological weekly, and is doing so with good results to the Kingdom of God in the world. As denominations or sects go on without government favor, so are they finding that they can get on without journalistic organship. And whether political parties have made the discovery that they can get on without partisan organs or not, self-sustaining and self-respecting newspapers have found out that they can get on without subservience to political organizations. It must be that this increased temperance, candor, culture and justice in journalism are representative of an improved tone of public opinion, of a reduction of political asperity, of a discovery of the futility of partisan rancor and of the conviction that "politics" is not incompatible with decency.

Gage Encountered Boor on Car.
(Chicago Record-Herald.)

Lyman J. Gage, former secretary of the treasury, met the man who wants all the room in a New York elevated railroad car yesterday. Mr. Gage was on his way to business in a Sixth avenue train from Forty-eighth street in the morning rush hour. He had to hold a strap. The car was filled. The elderly banker found himself pushed by a tall, very well-dressed, somewhat portly-looking man.

The newcomer had a way of clinging to the strap that turned his elbow out at right angles. The elbow hit Mr. Gage in the back of the head, knocking off his big felt hat.

Now, the banker is the most easy-going of men. He replaced the hat, looked once at his tall neighbor and said nothing. In a moment the elbow played the same trick.

Mr. Gage was carrying a neatly rolled umbrella that had a steel rod for a backbone. He maneuvered this so that it prodded the other man sharply at about the fifth rib. Soon the hat went off again and the rib was punched again.

"Say, what do you mean by stabbing me in that way?" demanded the man with the elbow, fiercely.

"Then why do you keep knocking my hat off?" said Mr. Gage.

"You ought to go down town in a cab by yourself," sneered the elbower.

"So I would," chuckled Mr. Gage, "if everybody who rides on the elevated were like you."

The passengers roared at the retorts of the grave and dignified banker, in whom few recognized Mr. Gage. The two men kept up a running fire of uncomplimentary conversation all the way to Rector street, where both got off. But the elbow was kept down and the umbrella's services were not required again.

Defeated Tax Legislation.
(Bonds and Mortgages.)

The people of Colorado are to be congratulated on their action on November 4 in defeating the proposed amendment to the constitution that was to inaugurate in a modified form the land tax of Henry George, as one of the institutions of that state. The amendment was the outcome of the rather complicated taxation troubles that have afflicted Colorado. Like other western states it has to struggle with the question of outgo and income in an aggravated situation. In 1890 the state's population was 412,198 and the assessed valuation $210,544,064; in 1900 the population was 539,700, and the valuation $216,776,356. For several years before it has been less than that. Therefore the four-mill levy that had been the state's limit of taxation yielded less in 1900 than in 1890, though the population, and the needs as well as the wealth, presumably, were one-fourth larger.

The condition became so serious, with the increasing expenses and the decreasing assessment, that in 1900 a special tax law was passed, the work of a rough-going commission. This was soon tested in the courts and proved unconstitutional. Then a special session of the legislature was called and it adopted a law that avoided the troubles and defects of the former measure. The state now enjoys this advantage that it is getting a larger income and is taxing certain forms of property that formerly avoided payment. The interest in reform brought about the submission of the "Bucklin amendment," providing that on the petition of 100 persons any community might vote to exempt from taxation all personal property, thus placing the burden of expense on the land. The scheme is based on the New Zealand law and is practically the single tax theory put in practice. However, the amendment was defeated by a large majority.

In Kansas, as told in our Kansas letter, there has been practically a defeat for the new tax law framed by a tax commission. It is based on the Indiana and New York laws and makes a marked change in the taxation methods of the state. It was defeated by the farming communities. In Missouri the people repealed by their vote the amendment adopted two years ago making the mortgages of realestate pay such share of the tax as his mortgage bore proportionately to the value of the realty. The courts had previously declared it unconstitutional, but it was deemed best to strike it off the books.

These results in western states make manifest the need of reform in taxation in the commonwealths named, and the same conditions in varying degrees are true elsewhere. They also show that the people can be depended upon to use everyday sense in defeating any legislation that threatens their financial standing. They are likely to be overcareful in making innovations, but that is not a bad fault in new commonwealths which may easily engraft upon their constitutions provisions that are unwise, if not positively harmful. Then it is very hard to reverse the engine. The taxation problem in the west, where values are changing rapidly and where the people are to a degree reckless, deserves the most careful attention of the wisest students, and many experiments may be expected before the matter is settled.

Fairley's Stand.
(Aspen Times, Rep.)

The stand taken by Chairman Fairley in the matter of the state Republican celebration has been the subject of much criticism, adverse and otherwise. The men of Arapahoe county condemn it because they favor Wolcott. There was a time when we favored Wolcott, too.

We cannot see the reason for the unbridled and licentious attacks on all men merely because they do not agree as to the wisdom of running for senator a man who cannot possibly win. This very abuse and unnecessary and uncalled for severity will result in a still wider breach between Wolcott and his party.

It might as well be understood first as last that Wolcott is not acceptable to the greater bulk of the people of the state. Perhaps it was different in the past. He certainly has had honors enough to warrant the belief that such was the case some years ago. But that time has gone now and the sooner we realize it the sooner will we be able to get down to a sensible view of the matter.

Suppose it was possible for the party to elect Wolcott to the senate—which it is not—what would be the ultimate result? The voters would relegate the party at the next election. The people would consider, and it must be conceded with some show of right and authority, that they had been lied to.

The great bulk of the voters of the state hate Wolcott and therefore, he cannot be a fit representative of the state. Neither is he loved by the party. What has he done for the organization in comparison to what the party has done for him?

He has his friends in the political sheep fold but his enemies are to be numbered by the score and they are bitter and uncompromising. They will not rest content until they see him defeated. We do not wish to accuse Mr. Wolcott of anything in the least discreditable, but we must say that his methods cannot meet with the approval of any fair-minded and upright man.

He leaves the state in apparent disgust, having denounced the leaders as incompetent and denounced the state organization as unworthy of spending a cent with. But a victory is gained, and then back comes he with a beaming smile and an open hand.

Does he think we are so venal and unscrupulous that for a paltry bribe of money or office we can be won away from our uncompromising displeasure of him and his oblivion forsaking of us in time of need? If he does, he is badly mistaken. He will never be the United States senator from Colorado again.

The Republican party has plenty of good men who can unite the factions and extend the full strength of the party. It has plenty of competent men who can fill the seat with dignity and honor to themselves and to their state. There is no need to go to New York for a representative. Let everybody take notice and learn, if necessary, by sad experience, that the Republican members of the legislature cannot be purchased or frightened into voting for a man who forsakes his state and his party out of petty spite.

A Practical Sermon.
(Kansas City Journal.)

The sermon delivered by the Rev. Albert Buttrell last Sunday evening at the Clyde Congregational church was a new departure in pulpit oratory. It was not founded upon any particular text in the Bible. He selected 20 of the largest and most successful business firms of the city, wrote to them and received their answers to the following questions:

"First—Is it possible in these days to attain large business success and maintain a high standard of personal integrity?"

"Second—Is the golden rule practicable in business?"

"Third—Is it observed by business houses?"

"Fourth—Is it any advantage to a young man from a business point of view to belong to a church or the Y. M. C. A.?"

"Fifth—What qualities of character do business men most desire in employes?"

"Sixth—Would you advise a young man to become a follower of Jesus Christ?"

And upon these questions and answers he based his sermon. It was unique, forceful and effective. The firms addressed answered the first four of these questions in the affirmative. To the fifth and sixth they gave answers that they preferred young men and women who belonged to some church or religious organization, for the simple business reason that they lived among moral associates and under good influences; and that in fact the Christian applicant, all things being equal was selected before one who had no standing in any church.

A sermon of this kind counts for something with people who ordinarily do not care for sermons. It throws light upon the bread and butter proposition in which all are interested, but a little more keenly than others.
